SC grants interim bail, but Kejri to stay in Tihar jail

Delhi trial court extends judicial custody in case lodged by the CBI

SUCHITRA KALYAN MOHANTY @ New Delhi

THE Supreme Court on Friday granted interim bail to Delhi Chief Minister Arvind Kejriwal in a money laundering case filed by the Enforcement Directorate (ED) in the Delhi excise policy scam, but the Aam Aadmi Party leader will remain in jail in connection with a corruption case lodged by the Central Bureau of Investigation (CBI).

The CBI had arrested Kejriwal on June 26 in connection with a case linked to the now-scrapped Delhi excise policy. He was remanded in judicial custody. On Friday, the trial court extended the judicial custody till July 25. Kejriwal was produced before Special Judge Kaveri Baweja through video conferencing from Tihar jail.

While granting interim bail to Kejriwal, the SC bench comprising justices Sanjiv Khanna and Dipankar Datta made some sharp remarks about the manner in which the ED makes its arrests.

The bench said if there is wrong application of law, courts can strike down the agency's decision and such an action will be deemed review of errors of law. "This would not amount to judicial overreach or interference with the investigation," it clarified.

The bench further observed that "undue indulgence and latitude to the ED will be deleterious to the constitutional values of rule of law and life and liberty of people", adding that the power to arrest must be exercised in a fair manner.

"An officer cannot selectively pick and choose material implicating the person to be arrested," it said, adding the sleuths can't refuse to consider any material that exonerates the arrestee.

The bench referred Kejriwal's petition challenging his arrest and remand by the ED in the excise policy case to a larger bench, saying the legal questions regarding the "necessity to arrest" under Section 19 of the Prevention of Money Laundering Act raised in the plea need in-depth perusal.

WHAT SC SAID

- Courts can't ask Kejriwal to step down as Delhi CM because of his arrest; it's up to him to decide
- The need for interrogation can't be sole reason for arrest
- Kejriwal has spent 90 days in jail; larger bench can decide on his plea on illegal arrest
- Arrest can't be made arbitrarily and on the whims and fancies of the authorities
- Arrests should be made on the basis of valid "reasons to believe", meeting the parameters prescribed by the law
- "Reason to believe" for arresting a person under PMLA must be furnished to the arrestee

RETAIL INFLATION AT 4-MONTH HIGH, INDUSTRIAL OUTPUT UP

MONIKA YADAV @ New Delhi

WITH high food prices refusing to ebb, the country's retail inflation in June increased to a four-month high of 5.08% from 4.75% in the previous month. According to government data released on Friday, food inflation surged to 9.4% for June, while the Consumer Price Index-based retail inflation crossed the 5% mark after three months.

Meanwhile, another set of data released on Friday showed that India's industrial output growth reached a seven-month high of 5.9% in May, up from 5% in April, on the back of a significant increase in electricity generation and production of consumer durables. However, manufacturing growth stood at a lower-than-expected 4.6%.

A quick analysis of the retail inflation data showed that the spike in June was largely due to a 14% month-on-month surge in vegetable prices, which clocked a 29.3% year-on-year growth. The prices of pulses surged 16.1% in June from a year ago. "Inflation for sub-groups — eggs, spices, meat & fish and pulses & products — decreased as compared to May 2024," said a government release.

The Reserve Bank of India, which has the legal mandate to control inflation, has time and again expressed its discomfort with high food prices. In the previous month, food inflation was 8.7%, even as overall inflation had dropped to a 12-month low.

The data released by the National Statistical Office showed that rural inflation is higher at 5.66% urban inflation which came in at 4.39%. On the other hand, food inflation is higher in urban areas than in rural areas, the data showed.

Ex-min Nagendra taken to ED office, grilled

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru

OFFICIALS of the Directorate of Enforcement (ED) on Friday picked up former tribal welfare minister B Nagendra for questioning in connection with the alleged multi-crore scam in Karnataka Maharshi Valmiki Scheduled Tribes Development Corporation. Meanwhile, Raichur Rural MLA and chairman of the corporation Basavangouda Daddal appeared before the SIT in the morning. Daddal was questioned till evening.

The ED officials picked Nagendra from his house at Dollars Colony in the morning and took him to their office at Shantinagar. "I am being brought from my home. I don't know anything," Nagendra told reporters while he was being taken to the ED office.

The ED officials, who conducted search and seizure operations in connection with the scam, have been camping in Nagendra's house since Wednesday morning.

They conducted extensive searches at multiple locations across Karnataka, Telangana, and Andhra Pradesh and seized several documents, besides quizzing many people in connection with the scam.

On Wednesday, they quizzed Harish, former minister's PA. They also questioned Nagendra's aide Chethan and media coordinator Nagaraj. Daddal's former PA Pampanna was quizzed for several hours on Thursday, before letting him go at night.

One killed, three hurt as earth caves in at Hutti mines

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Raichur

ONE person died on the spot and three others were seriously injured when earth caved in at Mallappa Shaft of Hutti Gold Mines Limited (HGML) in Lingasugur taluk of Raichur district at 3.30 am on Friday.

The deceased has been identified as Maunesh. Parasurama, Rangaswamy and Budeppa were shifted to a hospital in Bengaluru. They were working at Mallappa Shaft when earth caved in suddenly.

Tension prevailed on the premises of HGML office for some time when labour union leaders and members staged a protest demanding that a compensation of Rs 50 lakh be announced to Maunesh's family. The leaders said they would not allow the authorities to conduct the autopsy until the company announced compensation to Maunesh's family.

They withdrew their protest when officials from HGML promised that a good compensation package would be given to Maunesh's family.

Company chairman and Congress MLA GT Patil visited Maunesh's house and consoled his family members.

He handed over a letter of appointment from the company to Maunesh's son.

Patil promised the family members that he would make efforts to get them a compensation of at least Rs 5 lakh from the company.

June 25 notified as Samvidhaan Hatya Diwas to commemorate Emergency

MUKESH RANJAN @ New Delhi

THE government on Friday notified its decision to observe June 25, the day Indira Gandhi imposed Emergency in the country in 1975, as Samvidhaan Hatya Diwas (Day of murder of the Constitution) to commemorate the massive contributions of those who endured inhuman pains during that period.

Union home minister Amit Shah said, the Samvidhaan Hatya Diwas will help keep the eternal flame of individual freedom and the defence of democracy alive in every Indian, thus preventing dictatorial forces like the Congress from "repeating those horrors".

In a post on X, Prime Minister Modi said the commemoration of Emergency will serve as a reminder of what happened when the Constitution was trampled over. "It is also a day to pay homage to each and every person who suffered due to the excesses of Emergency, a Congress unleashed dark phase of Indian history," he said.

The gazette notification issued on Friday, noted that Emergency was declared on June 25, 1975, following which there was "gross abuse of power by the government of the day and people of India were subjected to excesses and atrocities".

Shah said on June 25, 1975, Indira Gandhi, in a "brazen display of a dictatorial mindset, strangled the soul of democracy by imposing Emergency". Lakhs of people were thrown behind bars for no fault of theirs, and the voice of the media was silenced, he recalled.

Govt hopes to make WAVES with Davos-like do

PARVEZ SULTAN @ New Delhi

THE government appears to be pulling out all the stops to draw the biggest global leaders in the media and entertainment sector like James Cameron and Steven Spielberg, and the heads of popular social media intermediaries, to a major industry event in Goa in November.

Called the World Audio-Visual & Entertainment Summit (WAVES), the aim is to make its inaugural event as stunning and grand as the World Economic Forum's annual summit at Davos, Switzerland.

Piloted by the ministry of information and broadcasting, WAVES will coincide with the annual India International Film Festival this year.

The primary aim is to promote India as a hub of content creation; attract filmmakers to the Indian market, which offers state-of-the-art technological interventions and innovations in film production and post production. Prime Minister Narendra Modi is expected to inaugurate the four-day event starting November 21.

The curtain raiser event will take place in the national capital on Saturday. Union I&B minister Ashwini Vaishnaw will chair the meeting. Goa Chief Minister Pramod Sawant, ambassadors of various countries and at least 70 industry leaders will participate.

"Discussions with top industry leaders will be held to work out modalities and get their inputs for the summit," said officials. Various conferences, business events, exhibitions, media market place, skill or talent showcase and cultural extravaganza celebrating the vibrant diversity and technology proficiency of the media and entertainment industry are planned as part of the event.

FIGURES THAT MATTER

- Global Media & Entertainment (M&E) industry revenue $2.32 trillion in 2022; India's present market size is $26.2 billion
- Advertising poised to surpass $1 trillion globally
- Gaming revenues projected to rise from $227 billion in 2023 to $312 billion in 2027. India's gaming sector revenue at present is ₹122 billion
- Animation, visual effects, and post-production segment of India grew by 6% in 2023 to ₹114 billion
- Music segment in India grew by 10% to ₹24 billion in 2023 and is projected to grow at a CAGR of 15% to ₹37 billion by 2026
- Filmed entertainment in India grew by 15% to ₹197 billion in 2023, with theatrical revenues reaching a record of ₹120 billion. Globally, 339 Indian films across 38 countries grossed ₹19 billion

Content production market of US, the world's largest, is valued at $250 billion. India should target 10% of its post-production work, equivalent to $7.5 billion over the next decade. In 2023, India produced nearly 2 lakh hours of content across various platforms

Cauvery: K'taka to appeal against order

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru

THE Karnataka government on Friday decided to appeal against the Cauvery Water Regulation Committee's (CWRC) directive to release water to Tamil Nadu and hold an all-party leaders' meeting on July 14 to decide on the action to be taken on the matter.

On Thursday, the CWRC directed Karnataka to release one tmcft of water per day from July 12 to 31 to Tamil Nadu.

After holding a meeting with ministers and senior officers, Chief Minister Siddaramaiah told reporters that the government will appeal before the Cauvery Water Management Authority (CWMA) against the CWRC's directive. Although IMD has forecast normal rainfall this time, there is a 28% shortfall in the inflow into the four reservoirs in the Cauvery basin in the state, he said and added that the reservoirs now have only 60 tmcft of water.

Siddaramaiah said Karnataka had explained its position at the CWRC meeting and requested it not to take any decision till July end. However, the CWRC directed the state to release one tmcft of water every day from July 12 to 31. He said all parties in the state have always been together on the issue of sharing Cauvery water. An all-party leaders' meeting will be in Bengaluru at 4 pm on July 14.

Union ministers, MPs and MLAs from all parties in the state will be invited to the meeting. A decision on the action to be taken in view of the CWRC's directive will be arrived at after taking everyone into confidence, he said.

JUMBOS KILL THREE IN A WEEK IN BNP

Khandre announces Rs 25L compensation; Elephant numbers 125, swell to 220 at times

BOSKY KHANNA @ Bengaluru

THERE have been three deaths in the past week in and around Bannerghatta National Park (BNP). The fragmented national park abuts the state capital, Bengaluru, and faces constant threat of encroachment and garbage litter.

In the early hours of Friday, 55-year-old Hakki Pikki tribal Chikkamadaiah, who worked as a watcher, died in an elephant attack. According to his colleagues, the incident happened around 12.30am, when they were on night duty near Dodda Bande in Bannerghatta range of BNP. They saw an elephant herd pass by. After some time, Chikkamadaiah heard a noise. He came out of his solar fence shed to check, when he was hit by a wild Makhana (tuskless male). The impact was so hard that he died on the spot, and his body was taken to Victoria Hospital for postmortem.

On July 10, Suresh, a 45-year-old villager, was found dead in Kodihalli range. On July 6, a 38-year old farmer was reported dead in the same range. The deaths were suspected to have been caused by a wandering wild tusker.

Forest, Environment and Ecology Minister Eshwar B Khandre and senior forest officials visited Chikkamadaiah's family and condoled his death. Khandre announced compensation of Rs 25 lakh to each family, and a job to a family member on compassionate grounds.

BNP Deputy Conservator of Forests Prabhakar Priyadarshi said Chikkamadaiah was one of the finest watchers and had been with BNP for 25 years.

A senior forest official said the number of elephants in the area has increased. There are around 125 elephants here, but their number swells to even 220 at times. Movement of elephants is high, as BNP borders Tamil Nadu and shares boundaries with Kanakapura, Cauvery and Ramanagara forest ranges.

"The problem has aggravated as movement of people has increased, there has been an increase in civil activities, encroachment and people's presence. There is a shortage of funds to create rail barricades and replace old solar and barbed barriers. There is also shortage of ground staff," the official admitted. Friday's incident is a lesson that staffers on night duty need adequate security, he said. "Villagers are told not to wander at night. Technological interventions need to be brought in to ensure staff safety," the official said.

ACTIVISTS PETITION SC

Activists and members of Bannerghatta Conservation Trust have again petitioned the Supreme Court on increasing encroachments and civil works in and around BNP. "Last year, they had penned a letter to PM Modi, pointing to anomalies in BNP. The PM had directed the chief secretary and chief conservator of forests to submit a report, but nothing has moved forward. Increasing human deaths is a sign of mistakes on ground and no attention being paid."

HC warns BBMP, police chiefs of contempt case

ENS @ Bengaluru

THE Karnataka High Court on Friday issued notice to the BBMP commissioner and Bengaluru City Police commissioner, questioning why they should not be booked under the Contempt of Court Act for their scant disregard for orders passed by court to prevent unauthorised flexes, hoardings, banners and advertisements, which continue to dot the city.

A division bench of Chief Justice NV Anjaria and Justice KV Aravind passed the order after taking suo motu cognisance of a news report about unauthorised hoardings, flexes and advertisements in the city, which was dealt with through public interest litigations (PILs) since 2017. "Despite the deterrent directions issued, it is evident that authorities have not cared to comply with court orders. The pending orders which are operative and the situation reported and reflected in the news item show continued activity of placing the illegal hoarding, is the conduct of the contumacious act of respondent authorities, specifically the Commissioner of BBMP and City Police Commissioner. In the facts and circumstances of the case and present suo motu cognisance of the news report, we are inclined to seek answers from the Commissioner of BBMP and City Police Commissioner as to why they should not be booked for contempt. Therefore, notice should include both the commissioners to explain to the court as to why proceedings under the Contempt of Court Act should not be initiated against them," the court noted.

Issuing notice to the chief secretary, seeking a response on the issue, the court observed that contents of the news item depict a very sorry state of affairs, especially in light of various orders passed in PILs, including the order dated January 18, 2024.

The court further said that from the news item, two things are definitely suggested. First, the illegal activity of installing hoardings on streets continues unchecked, which amounts to brazen disregard for the order passed by court. It could hardly be said that the authorities are not aware of the orders of the court. Second, scant disregard for implementation of the court order.

AHEAD of Bengaluru Tech Summit (BTS) scheduled for November 19-21, CM Siddaramaiah and DCM DK Shivakumar held a breakfast meeting with 200 heads of IT, semiconductor, biotech, electronics and other startups on Friday. This year's summit will focus on B2B meetings, allowing delegates to engage in productive conversations and create more employment in Karnataka.

Siddaramaiah said, "We are committed to fostering an environment that nurtures innovation, encourages investment and supports sustainable growth. It is due to the forward-looking policies of the government that the state has clocked a GSDP growth rate (nominal) of 14.2 per cent in FY23. Karnataka is the fourth largest state in the country and contributes around 8.2 per cent to India's GDP." He added that Karnataka will embrace the next wave of technological advancements and create a robust infrastructure, skilled workforce and regulatory framework that promotes growth and innovation.

BTS-2024 will include a new focus track, Electro-Semicon, to invite innovation and discussion around new-age technologies. Other areas such as IT and deep tech, biotech and health tech, startup ecosystem, global innovation alliance, India-USA tech conclave, will continue. With the number of incubation centres increasing around the state, the government is looking at skill building and is willing to offer plug-and-play facilities for Global Capability Centres (GCCs). "Be it aerospace in Belagavi, semiconductors in Mysuru and startups in Mangaluru, we are certain the next wave of innovation will come from beyond Bengaluru," said IT-BT Minister Priyank Kharge.

'Efforts on to grab Dalit graveyard in Bellandur'

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru

LAND mafia is making efforts to grab the 1.39-acre graveyard at Bhoganahalli in Bellandur ward, according to Aam Aadmi Party's state organising secretary Ashok Mrutyunjaya and Karnataka Dalit Rakshana Vedike's Bengaluru East president Suresh BN.

They alleged that construction debris is being dumped across the graveyard to change its status.

Ashok and Suresh said no action has been taken though they filed a complaint four months ago against the alleged attempts being made to encroach upon the graveyard land worth Rs 100 crore.

"We filed the complaint with officials of the Bruhat Bengaluru Mahanagara Palike and the Revenue Department. Local MLA Manjula Limbavali is aware of it, but has not taken any action to prevent the encroachment of the graveyard. With no response from the officials and elected representatives, we are planning to launch an indefinite protest to protect the graveyard," Ashok said.

Suresh said when he raised the issue in the past, police cases were filed against him.

"The Revenue Department transferred the land to BBMP in 2009. But a prominent builder claims that the land belongs to him. Dalits bury their dead in this graveyard. The Dalit community will fight for justice," Suresh said.

A senior official from BBMP's Mahadevapura Zone said the claims made by the AAP leader and Dalit activists will be looked into.

BBMP engineers from Bellandur ward will be asked to look into the matter and file a report. If there is any encroachment, or debris is being dumped at the graveyard, action will be taken against the offenders. The BBMP will check with the Revenue Department and fence the land," the BBMP official said.

Corpn jobs: KEA to install CCTVs during exams

BENGALURU: The Karnataka Examination Authority (KEA) on Friday announced that necessary arrangements have been made to conduct examinations under camera surveillance for various posts in boards and corporations, aiming to fill vacancies in BMTC, Kalyana Karnataka Road Transport Corporation, and Karnataka Urban Water Supply and Sewerage Board, on July 13 and 14. The exam will be conducted in 377 rooms across 22 locations in the state, including Bengaluru, Kalaburagi, Dharwad, and Ballari, where sub-command centres have also been created in the district commissioner offices. KEA Executive Director H Prasanna said, "Cameras have been installed in each of the 377 rooms to monitor the situation through webcasting, a method being adopted for the first time. A command centre has been set up at the KEA office to monitor all the centres across the state."

NEET topper Sam Shreyas Joseph's father also delivered a speech on the occasion to inspire students.

Top cop's office adopts zero-waste initiative

ENS @ Bengaluru

BENGALURU City Police, in collaboration with BBMP and Swachha Belaku, on Friday inaugurated the 'Zero Waste Office' initiative at the police commissioner's office on Infantry Road. As the first of its kind by any government institution in Karnataka, this initiative aims to raise awareness about zero waste management by eliminating plastic use within the office premises, and ensuring proper segregation and disposal of dry and green waste.

"This significant step underscores our commitment to sustainable practices and environmental responsibility," said City Police Commissioner B Dayananda, after inaugurating the initiative.

All kinds of single-use plastics have been banned in the commissioner's office from Friday. Dry, wet and other types of waste are being segregated. Dry waste like plastic, cardboard, thermocol, and medical waste like sanitary pads will be segregated. Wet waste and leaves will be composted, and the compost used for plants and trees inside the compound. Dry waste will be stored in the basement parking area, and wet waste behind the office. "In due course, the initiative will be extended to all other police establishments and police stations in the city. Police residential quarters will soon transition to zero-waste premises," said an officer.

Daily Starscope

PETER VIDAL

13TH July : Here's a strange fact, which I have told you before. Every atom in your body was once in the sun. Now, according to the latest science, every such atom in our bodies has a potential telepathic relationship with an atom in the Sun. As you think, and an atom spins in your brain, so its partner atom in the Sun responds. And, as the one in the Sun turns, so the one in your brain follows. That's what I call weird!

ARIES (Mar 21 - Apr. 20)
Today's stars urge you to be fair to others, just as you expect them to be fair to you. Everyone has a reason for their actions and, if you understand this, you will be well on the way to resolving any remaining tensions whether at home or at work.

TAURUS (Apr. 21 - May 21)
Money will intrude on most areas of your life, and it's not a bad time at all for indulging in a spot of extravagance. However, you have a chance to radically re-arrange your home and family affairs, even if only in a small but deeply satisfying way.

GEMINI (May 22 - June 21)
You have to remember that it is always best to talk about your feelings, difficult as this may be. It's no use covering your emotions with your thoughts, as so many of you do so much of the time. Sometimes, the only thing that will do is raw passion and honesty.

CANCER (June 22 - July 23)
There'll almost certainly be a great deal to do behind the scenes. Some of you will be involved in charitable activities, while for others it will be simply a matter of having to get on with the job as quickly and quietly as possible. Decide which side you're on and then go for it!

LEO (July 24 - Aug. 23)
Mars' combination with the Moon could give you a massive shot of energy later on. It's therefore difficult to make plans in advance, for you might not know what you want to do until you're doing it! Still, it can be nice to sense that the future is wide open.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 - Sept. 23)
You may make a real song and dance if you're not getting what you want. This is one of those times in your life when your desires should be met, and surrounding individuals should give in to you for a change! At least that's the theory. The trouble is that other people are just so unpredictable.

LIBRA (Sept. 24 - Oct. 23)
It's a day of rapid changes, from the possibility of fruitful discussions and interesting news around mid-morning, through emotional tension midday, to practical work early afternoon, and a possible burst of mystery or excitement late in the evening. Enjoy!

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 - Nov. 22)
There's no question that this is the most important moment to concentrate on business matters. If, by any chance, you can bring increased excitement to a flagging relationship, make your plans around noon. And then all you have to do is make sure the cash situation is on your side.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 - Dec. 22)
The Moon's emotional movements may confront you with the consequences of your actions. Some people may return from your past, while others will mysteriously appear as if they were reading your mind. Be open to whatever happens, and bear in mind that even the most trivial activities might have a purpose.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 23 - Jan. 20)
You could be busier than usual, perhaps because, typically, you have taken on too much. Even if you have double-booked yourself or made completely contradictory commitments, you should be able to pull through. You might even discover something valuable about yourself along the way.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 - Feb. 19)
It's time for a little creativity. This doesn't mean that you have to be a great artist, but that whatever you do should be based on your own personal skills, talents and interests, rather than tagging along with friends and partners. But it's OK to let them do their thing, while you do yours.

PISCES (Feb. 20 - Mar 20)
Mars' alignment with the very base of your chart indicates a degree of friction, and you have a simple choice: to stay where you are or to move on. Putting your decision into action, of course, is a different matter! Perhaps that's why you need to come clean and solicit the best advice.

To tackle dengue, Lokayukta inspects waste disposal land

Says funds released to clean Kereguddadahalli lake misused

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

FOLLOWING the alarming rise in dengue cases in Karnataka in general and Bengaluru in particular, Karnataka Lokayukta Justice BS Patil along with Upa Lokayuktas Justices KN Phaneendra and B Veerappa examined Kammagondanahalli and Abbigere and Kereguddadahalli lake to check blackspots and proper disposal of waste.

The inspection was mainly to tackle the problem of waste disposal in these areas following complaints from the public. After inspection at Kereguddadahalli lake, the Lokayukta said, "Funds were released to clean the lake three months ago, but people are seen disposing of wastes into it." He directed officials to get the work done within a week.

He also told the officials to prepare weekly reports on the status of cleanliness. Addressing the media after the inspection, Justice Patil said it is noticed that the waste disposal was not done appropriately, which could lead to viral infections like dengue. He warned of stringent action against officials if the problems are not fixed at the earliest.

Justice Phaneendra said waste should not be dumped on railway tracks, which could lead to water stagnation. The Bruhat Bengaluru Mahanagara Palike (BBMP) should involve NSS and NCC volunteers from various schools and colleges in keeping the city clean, he suggested.

Several other issues were discussed during the inspection, which included effective supervision of projects, resolving problems at the ground level and imposition of fines.

Fraudsters cheat public on servicing RO units

RISHITA KHANNA @Bengaluru

AS dengue cases rise, more people are seeking to service their RO (reverse osmosis) units to ensure clean water. Cyberfraudsters, however, are exploiting this demand by posing as RO service providers. After receiving numerous complaints, the city police have flagged this as a new trend in online scam and warned the public against making any advance online payments.

A police officer told TNIE that approximately 100 such complaints from different parts of the city have been received.

Another senior police officer said, "The caller typically claims that the water purifier needs servicing or a part replacement, creating a false sense of urgency. As most branded companies regularly call to offer services every six months, people are falling prey to the scam, mistaking them to be genuine calls."

In some cases, fraudsters would already possess information about individuals who have inquired about the service, enabling them to call back and make the scam appear genuine, the officer added.

Fraudsters schedule a service visit and demand an advance fee for the appointment or for replacing parts. Though the amount they collect is typically low, it provides the fraudsters with access to some sensitive information, the officer said, and added that they use these details to either set up a mule account or target the same individual again for future scams.

The officer said that in some instances, a person shows up to service the unit, tampers with the machine to aggravate issues or installs substandard parts, only to extort more money from their victims. In most cases reported so far, nobody arrived.

City Police Commissioner B Dayananda cautioned the public, saying there has been an increase in fraudulent calls offering RO services. The senior officer advised the public to verify service calls thoroughly and avoid making hasty payments.

The children and anganwadi staff were rushed to a safe place soon after the explosion. ENS

Miscreants steal SUV's wheels from Cong MLA Deshpande's farmhouse

PRAVEEN KUMAR @Bengaluru

MISCREANTS have stolen four mag wheels from a brand new sports utility vehicle (SUV) at former minister and Haliyal Congress MLA RV Deshpande's farmhouse near Dasanapura off the Bengaluru-Tumakuru Main Road last Saturday.

The accused have stolen the wheels by placing bricks under all the four rims. The theft happened despite round-the-clock security. The senior politician's son has a car dealership and has showrooms at three different locations in the city. The farmhouse is used as the stockyard for the four-wheelers that are brought from the car company's Bidadi plant.

AS Harish, who is in charge of the stockyard, has filed a complaint with the Madanayakanahalli police.

Deshpande's farmhouse is located near Aluru cricket stadium in Bengaluru North taluk.

Deshapande's son Prasad R Deshpande is a car automobile dealer and has showrooms, including on the International Airport Road and Hebbal.

The farmhouse has six security guards who work shift-wise throughout the day.

"Miscreants have removed the mag wheels from the SUV. The theft that happened between 10 pm and 8am came to light when the security supervisor was on rounds in the stockyard. The cost of the stolen wheels is estimated around Rs 1 lakh. The accused are yet to be arrested. This is the second time a similar incident has happened. Two years back, miscreants stole tyres from two four-wheelers. We are not ruling out the possibility of the handiwork of an insider. Despite round-the-clock guards, outsiders can still enter premises as the height of the compound wall is very small," the police said.

The Madanayakanahalli police have registered a case under BNS.

Police detain BJP MP Yaduveer Krishnadatta Chamaraja Wadiyar and party workers as they try to lay seige to MUDA office in Mysuru on Friday

Congress workers led by KPCC spokesperson M Lakshmana protest against BJP near MUDA office in Mysuru on Friday

'Want probe by CBI; CM, Byrathi to resign'

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Mysuru

THE BJP leaders and workers staged a massive protest over the alleged irregularities in the allotment of sites by the Mysuru Urban Development Authority (MUDA) in Mysuru on Friday. They demanded that the State Government hand over the case to the Central Bureau of Investigation (CBI). They also demanded the resignation of Chief Minister Siddaramaiah and Urban Development Minister Byrathi Basavaraj.

Amid the rain, BJP workers turned up in large numbers in Mysuru's KR Boulevard Road. Waving BJP flags, they raised slogans against Siddaramaiah and Byrathi Suresh.

BJP leaders, including Leader of the Opposition in the Assembly R Ashoka, former DyCM Dr CN Ashwathnarayan, Mysuru-Kodagu MP Yaduveer Krishnadatta Chamaraja Wadiyar, MLA Srivatsa, BJP city unit chief L Nagendra, and others, were taken into custody by the police after they tried to jump over the barricades to enter the MUDA office.

Addressing the gathering, Ashoka accused the CM and his family of illegally getting sites from MUDA and threatened to continue to protest till Siddaramaiah resigns over the alleged scams in MUDA and the Maharshi Valmiki Schedule Tribes Development Corporation Ltd. He said that hundreds of sites were illegally distributed, and the Opposition has every right to protest. He also hit out at Siddaramaiah for playing the OBC card. Earlier, in a bid to elude the police, BJP leaders came to Mysuru in a vegetable goods carrier.

The BJP leaders said that Siddaramaiah was misleading people, as he has taken alternative sites in a developed layout instead of the same layout or in a newly developed one.

MP Yaduveer said that the state's exchequer is empty and the government has no funds to fill potholes or tackle dengue.

He said that Karnataka is in debt owing to the implementation of the guarantee schemes, and this has put a brake on development. He demanded the resignation of Siddaramaiah. "The recent Lok Sabha polls in Mysuru were considered a matter of prestige by the CM since it is his home turf. But he should have considered administration in the district as a matter of prestige," the MP said.

BJP MLA Srivatsa accused the MUDA of allotting 5 lakh sq ft to only a few under the 50:50 ratio meant for land losers. He said that the MUDA can allot more than 560 sites, each measuring 20x30 sq ft if the land is taken back and developed into the layout.

'BJP wants to send Siddu to jail like Kejri; their leaders face graft charges'

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Mysuru

ACCUSING BJP of vindictive politics, targeting Chief Minister Siddaramaiah for political reasons and levelling baseless charges against him, the Congress rank and file rallied behind the CM on Friday.

Congress leaders and cadres, who had poured into the city from across the district, held a stir to counter BJP's massive protest planned for the day.

BJP has accused Siddaramaiah and his wife Parvati of illegally getting 14 sites allotted in their name, in lieu of 3.16 acres of land acquired by MUDA. BJP is also demanding a CBI probe into the alleged "scam".

Congress leaders, congregated near the Institute of Engineers, raised slogans against BJP and its state president BY Vijayendra, and dared saffron leaders to produce documents to prove their charges. They charged that BJP workers don't have any moral right to protest as their leaders are tainted and face corruption charges. District Congress president BJ Vijaykumar announced that they will take the padayatra to Maharaja's College Grounds, where BJP workers, led by Leader of Opposition R Ashoka, were protesting. When the police stopped them, a few Congress workers tried to take a different route to the grounds, while others attempted to jump over the barricades. They got into a verbal duel with Police Commissioner Seema Latkar, saying she was favouring BJP, though Congress was in power in the state. The big posse of police force that was in place managed to push back protesters and stopped them from marching. The workers, including women, continued to protest despite the rain.

The police blocked the busy JLB Road from Ramaswamy Circle till Field Marshal KM Cariappa Circle.

Animal Husbandry Minister K Venkatesh said MUDA gave the sites to Parvati as per law, and termed BJP's charges baseless.

KPCC spokesperson M Lakshmana alleged that BJP wants to fix Siddaramaiah in false cases and is keen to see him in jail, like Delhi CM Arvind Kejriwal.

He said the opposition is antsy as Siddaramaiah has become the chief minister the second time and is committed to protect the interest of minorities, Dalits, backward classes, farmers and poor.

Karnataka Exhibition Authority Chairman Ayub Khan said the protest sent a warning to BJP and proved that Congress is solidly behind Siddaramaiah.

Former MUDA chairman HV Rajeev said the BJP conspiracy of spreading lies won't work. Siddaramaiah did not prevail upon MUDA or influence anyone to get the sites.

We (JDS-BJP) will jointly fight against this anti-people government in the session. We will raise issues such as MUDA and ST Corporation scam, diversion of funds meant for SCs/STs for guarantees etc

HD Kumaraswamy, Union Min

ON WHAT BASIS SIDDU SOUGHT ₹62 cr RELIEF: HDK

Union Minister for Heavy Industries and Steel HD Kumaraswamy said that Karnataka has slipped back by 10 years in terms of development after the Congress came to power in the state last year. Kumaraswamy spoke to the media after the meeting of JDS-BJP leaders. "We (JDS-BJP) will jointly fight against this anti-people government in the upcoming legislature session. We will raise several issues, including the scam in MUDA and ST Corporation, hike in price of milk, diversion of funds meant for SCs/STs to implement guarantees, suicide of farmers, etc," the Union Minister said. On MUDA row, he said, "The illegal activity was done by the CM himself. On what basis did he ask for a compensation of Rs 62 crore? How many people who have lost their land have been compensated by the government?"

NDA TO TAKE CONG TO TASK IN SESSION

The Opposition Bharatiya Janata Party and Janata Dal (Secular) leaders held a coordination meeting on Friday ahead of the monsoon session of the state legislature on Monday. They have decided to fight against the Ruling Congress in both the Houses of the legislature and this will be their first fight as NDA allies in the House. The meeting was attended by Union ministers Pralhad Joshi and HD Kumaraswamy, Leader of the Opposition in the Assembly R Ashoka and other JDS-BJP leaders. Speaking to reporters after the meeting, Ashoka said, "For the first time, BJP and JDS will fight inside the House as NDA allies. We are a big strength together." He said the two parties will take the government to task over various issues, including the alleged scams in MUDA and the ST Corporation. "The scams are not anymore state issues, but nation. We will fight against corruption and take it to its logical conclusion. The Congress is full of corruption and we are going to expose it completely. They have looted money meant for SCs/STs," he said.

BJP hits out at CM for playing caste card

Bengaluru: The Opposition BJP slammed Chief Minister Siddaramaiah for claiming that he was targeted in the Mysuru Urban Development Authority (MUDA) case as he was from backward class.

"As expected, the CM resorts to playing caste card after his corrupt face gets exposed in the Rs 4,000 crore mega MUDA land scam," said Leader of Opposition R Ashoka. The BJP leader questioned the CM if Congress MP Rahul Gandhi's unfounded aggression against PM Modi stem from his deep envy against the three-time OBC Prime Minister? "The time is ticking CM Siddaramaiah avare, your mask is off!" he said.

BJP MP Lahar Singh said this is the last resort of a person who is clearly cornered. "It is unfortunate that the CM of nearly 6 crore Kannadigas is claiming his OBC tag to save himself in the MUDA scam. What will happen if everybody starts hiding behind their caste when accused of a crime. Does Rahul Gandhi's Constitution offer exemptions to crimes and corruption based on caste?" the BJP MP said.

'Siddaramaiah can't escape'

KARNATAKA BJP president BY Vijayendra has said that the party will raise the issue of alleged irregularities in Mysuru Urban Development Authority (MUDA) in the upcoming Legislature Session.

Speaking to the media near Bidadi, Vijayendra said, "We are not going to stop till we get a clear answer. CM Siddaramaiah cannot escape from this."

Vijayendra said the BJP will continue to protest till the case is handed over to the CBI and the CM resigns.

HC grants BSY exemption from appearing in court

The Karnataka High Court on Friday granted an exemption to senior Bharatiya Janata Party (BJP) leader and former chief minister BS Yediyurappa from appearing personally before the special court on Monday in response to the summons in a Protection of Children from Sexual Offences (POCSO) case.

The Criminal Investigation Department (CID) has filed the case under Section 8 of the Protection of Children from Sexual Offences (POCSO) Act, 2102 and 354A of IPC.

Justice Krishna S Dixit passed the interim order, requesting the presiding officer of the special court to give Yediyurappa an exemption for the day and adjourned the hearing to July 26. This was after hearing Yediyurappa's petition, challenging the case registered against him.

Senior counsel CV Nagesh argued that the special court took cognisance of the offence and issued the summons to Yediyurappa on Monday. Despite challenging the case before the high court and questioning the chargesheet, the special court insisted on the personal presence of Yediyurappa, he argued.

A minor girl's mother had filed a complaint at the Sadashivanagar police station against Yediyurappa alleging sexual assault on the minor girl. The case was later handed over to Criminal Investigation Department.

Renaming Ramanagara not right: Dr Manjunath to CM

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru

BANGALORE Rural MP Dr CN Manjunath has written to CM Siddaramaiah, urging him not to consider the proposal of changing the name of Ramanagara district to Bengaluru South.

In his letter, Dr Manjunath said it is not right to change a name in this manner. There is emotion, religious, historical and mythological connect with a name. Former CM Kengal Hanumanthiah changed the name of the district from Closepete to Ramanagara. Shivakumara Mahaswamiji of Siddaganga Mutt and Balagangadharanatha Swamiji of Adichunchungiri Mutt were born in the district, and Nadaprabhu Kempegowda is also from this region. Ramanagara has given five CMs, and JDS leader HD Deve Gowda became PM after winning from this region as MP, he wrote. He said there is a belief that this is Kanva Maharshi's place and Lord Ram had stayed at Ramgiri hill.

Manjunath said there is Bangalore South Lok Sabha constituency in Bengaluru Urban district, and a district with the same name will create confusion. Slamming the proposal to change the name to "develop" the district, he said if the name Bengaluru would have made this region developed, it would have been developed between 1947 and 1986, when it was part of Bengaluru Urban, and 1986 to 2007, when it was Bengaluru Rural district. This region started developing when it was renamed Ramanagara district in 2007.

Former BJP MLC arrested in truck terminal case

BENGALURU: Former MLC and BJP leader DS Veeraiah, 78, was arrested by Criminal Investigation Department (CID) sleuths on Friday, in connection with the Rs 47.10-crore scam in the D Devaraj Urs Truck Terminals Limited (DDUTTL). Veeraiah was president of DDUTTL between 2021 and 2023, when the alleged scam took place. Veeraiah was arrested when he had gone for the BJP's protest against the MUDA scam. The scam came to light after current DUTTL Managing Director CN Shivaprakash lodged a formal complaint against Veeraiah and others at Wilson Garden police station on September 23, 2023, citing disparity in contracts awarded between 2021 and 2023. After the police complaint, the state government transferred the case to CID for further investigations. The DDUTTL is located at the TTMC building on KH Road in Shanthinagar. It may be recalled that former MD of DDUTTL, S Shankarappa (50), a resident of RT Nagar who is also deputy director of the Information department, was arrested by the CID in connection with the case. He was arrested in the last week of May. Shankarappa was accused of creating 782 files pertaining to tenders and contracts and allegedly causing a loss of Rs 47.10 crore to DDUTTL. He is also accused of destroying the minutes of meetings held during his tenure. ENS

Khader bats for renovation of Soudha, Horatti not keen

Staffers prepare Legislative Council ahead of the upcoming legislature session, at Vidhana Soudha in Bengaluru on Friday | NAGARAJA GADEKAL

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

WHILE Assembly Speaker UT Khader has stressed the renovation of Vidhana Soudha without damaging its heritage structure, Council Chairman Basavaraj Horatti has indirectly resisted the idea of renovation. "Vidhana Soudha is built based on vaastu, there is no need for any renovation," Horatti said. Assembly Speaker Khader and Council Chairman Horatti called for a press meeting on Friday to give details on the upcoming monsoon session of the state legislature that will begin on Monday.

Speaking to reporters, Khader said they have plans to give a facelift to Vidhana Soudha without damaging the heritage structure. Presently, the entrance to the Assembly is being renovated. According to Khader, this is the first time in 70 years that any kind of renovation is being done. "All these years, there were iron grills that were not giving an aesthetic look. Several foreign delegates visit Vidhana Soudha, and hence we took up renovation works," he said. Chief Minister Siddaramaiah is going to inaugurate this on Monday.

Meanwhile, Horatti indirectly said he was not in favour of renovation. He said many ministers and legislators are renovating their rooms as per their choice. "Vidhana Soudha is constructed based on vaastu. Some ministers renovating their rooms, citing vaastu as the reason, is not acceptable," he said. He also said that there are provisions for small renovations, but not any major construction.

In the last session, the Speaker introduced the tradition of appreciating MLAs who come to the session on time. But this time, technology will be used to keep track of their presence in the House. "We will reward the best legislator who comes early and sits till the end of the day's proceedings," he added.

Khader also said they are coming up with a dedicated mobile application to know the room numbers of ministers and officials at Vidhana and Vikasa soudhas.

They are also organising a chess competition among MLAs, officials, and journalists.

On ED taking custody of former minister B Nagendra, Speaker UT Khader said that they have not received any information on the matter. "If it was done during the session, they should have taken permission from the Speaker," he said.

Meanwhile, Horatti said that the Selection Committee to select the best legislator has almost finalised the name. "We will announce it later',' he said. He also said sessions should be conducted for 60 days in a year. "We are going to discuss it with the CM," he added.

JAGAN BOOKED FOR 'ATTEMPT TO MURDER'

Former Andhra Pradesh CM was arrested, booked under IPC sections 124A, 153A, 505, 120B

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Vijayawada

A case was registered against former Andhra Pradesh Chief Minister YS Jagan Mohan Reddy, two senior IPS officers and two other officials on charges of criminal conspiracy, attempt to murder and criminal intimidation, based on a complaint lodged by former YSRC MP K Raghurama Krishnam Raju.

Nagarapalem Police booked a case under IPC Sections 120B, 166, 167, 197, 307, 326, 465, and 506 read with 34 with Sunil Kumar as accused no. 1, Sitaramanjaneyulu as accused no. 2 and Jagan as accused no. 3. Former additional SP of CID R Vijaya Paul and former superintendent of Guntur Government General Hospital (GGH) superintendent G Prabhavati were also named as accused in the FIR.

It may be recalled that the AP-CID had registered a case against Raghurama Krishnam Raju in 2021 under the charges of 'indulging in hate speeches against certain communities and promoting disaffection against the government'.

He was subsequently arrested from his residence in Hyderabad and booked under IPC Sections 124A (sedition), 153A (promoting enmity between different groups), 505 (incite, any class or community of persons to commit any offence) read with 120B (criminal conspiracy).

The politician, now a TDP MLA, lodged the complaint alleging that he was subjected to 'custodial torture' on Jagan's directives in 2021.

In his complaint, the legislator alleged that he was arrested in Hyderabad and was shifted to the CB-CID office in Guntur district without a Prisoner Transit warrant.

He accused PV Sunil Kumar, PSR Sitaramanjaneyulu and other police officers of beating him with a rubber belt and lathi at the CID office. Raju alleged that the officers did not let him take his medicine despite knowing that he had undergone an open heart bypass surgery just a few weeks before his arrest.

He said some persons even sat on his chest and attempted to kill him. Raju further alleged that he was beaten till he disclosed his phone's password. Raju alleged that Sunil Kumar had threatened to kill him if he criticised Jagan.

The 62-year-old MLA said he was later shifted to the Government General Hospital in Guntur, where Dr Prabhavathi, who treated him, submitted false medical certificates at the insistence of police officials.

In 2021, too, Raju had approached the high court and alleged that false reports were submitted on his condition by the Guntur GGH doctors. Subsequently, the court had directed him to undergo medical tests at the Military Hospital in Secunderabad. Later, he had approached the Supreme Court, seeking a CBI inquiry into the 'custodial torture', but his plea was dismissed.

Reacting to the case registered against him, Sunil Kumar posted on X, "I leave it to your wisdom to understand how an FIR can be filed anew in a case that has already been dismissed by the Supreme Court after three years of proceedings."

Further, former minister Peri Venkataramaiah (Nani) pointed out that Raghurama Krishnam Raju had secured bail soon after his release. Based on the directions of the court, the doctors at Guntur GGH performed tests and submitted a report, stating that he had no injuries, the YSRC leader said. He recalled that the MP's plea before the Supreme Court, seeking a CBI probe into the incident was also dismissed.

"It is a 'red book' case and it won't stand in the court," Nani asserted.

Medical team conducts autopsy on Archana's body after it was exhumed at a graveyard in Haveri district on Friday

Haveri girl's body exhumed, reburied after spot postmortem

AMIT S UPADHYE @ Hubballi

A day after the suicide by a girl student from Morarji Desai Government Residential School in Haveri district came to light, the police and medical team exhumed the body of the deceased and conducted a postmortem at the graveyard on Friday.

Archana, 14, had hanged herself at her residence at Aladakatti village of Hirekerur taluk in Haveri district on July 2. In her death note, she blamed her classmate and her mother for the extreme step.

However, her family conducted the final rites without informing the police.

Police said the parents of the girl, backed by a few villagers, demanded a compensation of Rs 5 lakh from the parents of the accused student Zoya, who was named by Archana in her death note.

It is said that the school management convinced the parents to settle for Rs 1 lakh as compensation. The news spread after some of villagers informed the media.

"The suicide of the student came to light after the death note was found. We will investigate the case from all angles. The exhumed body was handed over to the family for reburial after the autopsy was completed at the graveyard," said a senior police official.

A large number of villagers gathered at the graveyard where the autopsy was conducted. The body of the girl was exhumed in the presence of senior government officials from Haveri district.

LDF, UDF claim credit for port project

Union Minister Sarbananda Sonowal and Kerala CM Pinarayi Vijayan at Vizhinjam International Seaport

THE inaugural trial run of the first container ship berthed at the Vizhinjam International Seaport Thiruvananthapuram was held on Friday, marking 'one giant leap for Kerala's development aspirations', even as the ruling LDF and the Opposition UDF vied for credit in realising the state's dream project.

However, Adani Ports and SEZ (APSEZ) Ltd managing director Karan Adani gave due credits to Chief Minister Pinarayi Vijayan as well as his predecessor late Oommen Chandy, while thanking "all those who put their heart and soul into this project".

Pinarayi, who formally welcomed the first mothership, San Fernando, termed it a "proud moment for Kerala and the country". The colourful ceremony was attended by Union Minister for Ports, Shipping and Waterways Sarbananda Sonowal and state ministers.

In his pretty long speech, Pinarayi avoided any mention of Chandy's contributions in the implementation of the project. Congress leader and local MLA M Vincent, the lone Opposition leader who attended the function, more than made up for the omission, attributing much of the credit for the port to the late leader.

Sonewal, in his address, said the project was a big step towards realising Prime Minister Narendra Modi's vision of creating world-class port infrastructure. "This is the testament of the vision of 'Make in India' where a PPP collaboration among Kerala government, Union government as well as the Adani Port SEZ has created a wonderful asset for growth of India's maritime sector," he said.

Odisha Guv's son in trouble for assaulting ASO

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bhubaneswar

An assistant section officer (ASO) of the state government has accused Governor Raghubar Das' son Lalit Kumar of assault for sending an ordinary car to fetch him from the railway station to Puri Raj Bhavan on July 7 night.

In his complaint with Puri Beach police station, Baikunthnath Pradhan, the ASO with parliamentary affairs department, alleged he was thrashed by Kumar, his two PSOs and as many friends.

He alleged that they asked him to lick their shoes and spit, and even threatened to kill when he tried to escape. Frightened, he did whatever they wanted him to do, the complainant said.

> They dared me to complain before the police saying that nobody can do anything to them,
>
> Baikunthnath Pradhan, ASO

Pradhan, an ex-serviceman, has been deployed at Governor's Household for last three years. After the incident, he lodged a formal complaint with Governor's principal secretary Saswat Mishra. On his advice, he also met the Governor on Thursday and described the whole incident.

Pradhan's complaint said at around 11.45 pm on July 7, he was in the office room when Governor's personal cook Aakash Singh told him that Kumar wanted to meet him. "When I arrived at suite No. 4, they accosted me for not sending two luxury cars to the railway station and started abusing. When I objected, they thrashed me," he alleged.

The complainant alleged that he ran out of the room and hid behind the annex building but two PSOs of Kumar dragged him to the suite again and started blowing punches on his face, body and twisted his left ankle. "They dared me to complain before the police saying that nobody can do anything to them," he said in his complaint.

Pradhan said since no action was taken thereafter, he filed a complaint with the police seeking justice and action against the accused. "The inspector-in-charge of the police station kept my complaint but did not register any case. He told me he would take action after consulting with the SP," Pradhan said.

Principal secretary to the Governor and Raj Bhavan PRO did not respond to calls and messages when TNIE reached out for their version. Pradhan's wife Sajoja Kumari Pradhan told mediapersons on Friday that there is threat to life of her husband and other family members and sought immediate police action. "We are scared after the incident. We want immediate action in this matter," she said.

Hyd man sells 18-day-old daughter, held

SWETHAVI MALA M @ Hyderabad

A man was arrested by Bandlaguda police on Friday for selling his 18-day-old girl for ` 1.5 lakh to a childless middle-aged couple from Karnataka. The buyers and intermediary were also taken into custody. After the mother filed a complaint, the baby was rescued and reunited with her within 24 hours.

Around four days ago, Asif (38), a daily-wage labourer in Bandlaguda, sold his newborn to Minal Saad (45) as he was reportedly unable to manage his family's finances. "Asif took up the offer to sell the baby and threatened his wife, Asma Begum, to not tell anyone," police told TNIE. "The couple have an eight-year-old son and Asif was ready to sell the baby girl," a senior officer said.

Saad and his wife, who live near Karnataka's Kalaburagi, were upset over not having a child. Saad's relative, Pasha, suggested they procure a baby through illegal means and recommended he get in touch with Chand Sultana, a mediator in Abdullapurmet. "Asif was then contacted by the mediator to sell his baby for the said price," police said. Four days after the deal, on Thursday, Asma, who was threatened by Asif to keep it a secret, filed a complaint. The Bandlaguda police registered a case under Sections 81 and 82 of the Juvenile Justice Act and other sections on charges of kidnapping and sale/procurement of a child. The police then formed a team and went to Karnataka to rescue the baby.

Cops reunited Asma with her daughter and arrested the four accused — Asif, Saad, Pasha and Chand Sultana. "The mediator is not involved in any previous case but further investigation is under progress," police added.

Another BRS MLA joins Cong

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Hyderabad

BRS MLA Prakash Goud joined the Congress in Telangana on Friday, taking the total number of opposition legislators switching over to the ruling party to eight. Goud, elected from Rajendranagar here, was welcomed into the Congress fold by Chief Minister and PCC president A Revanth Reddy.

Speculation is rife that more BRS MLAs would join the ruling party in the days to come. BRS had won 39 of the total 119 Assembly constituencies in the elections held last year, while Congress came to power winning 64 seats. However, BRS MLA from Secunderabad Cantonment, G Lasya Nanditha, died in a road accident earlier this year. Congress won the recently held by-poll for the above segment. This led to an increase in its strength to 65. With the addition of eight BRS MLAs who crossed over to Congress, its strength rose to 73.

Six BRS MLCs also joined the ruling Congress recently. With the fresh defections, Congress' strength goes up to 10 in the 40-member Legislative Council.

IN the four Cauvery basin reservoirs of the state, only 60% of water is available. The state needs water for agriculture, besides drinking and industrial purposes, the CM said.

Deputy Chief Minister DK Shivakumar, who is also Water Resources Minister, said the deficit is 28 in percentage terms, or 19 tmcft in absolute terms. Water storage at Harangi dam stood at 73%, Hemavathi 55%, KRS 54%, and Kabini 96%.

Water is being released from Kabini dam in line with the safety norms, he said in response to a question whether water is being released to Tamil Nadu.

Shivakumar said that a decision to release water for farmers of Mandya district will be taken after the all-party meeting.

He held discussions with the state's legal team which has made some suggestions on the way forward.

Iraqi with abdominal aortic aneurysm treated

ENS @ Bengaluru

A 59-year-old man from Iraq with a history of Coronary Artery Bypass Graft (CABG) surgery and abdominal liposuction was successfully treated for juxtarenal abdominal aortic aneurysm (a juxtarenal abdominal aortic aneurysm is a swelling in the part of the aorta – the main blood vessel, near the kidneys that can weaken the artery wall and affect blood flow). The aneurysm measured 11.5 cm in length and 8.5 cm in diameter, involving the blood supply to both kidneys and the major blood supply to the intestines.

Dr Madhu Prashanth D, Senior Consultant, Department of Vascular and Interventional Radiology, Sakra World Hospital, explained that Abdominal Aortic Aneurysms (AAA) can occur anywhere below the diaphragm, with the infrarenal area — just below the kidneys — being a common location.

Mobile phone banned on all three chariots at Puri: Temple admin

Bhubaneswar: The new chief administrator of Shree Jagannath temple Arabinda Padhee on Friday said no mobile phones will be allowed atop the chariots of Lord Balabhadra, Devi Subhadra and Lord Jagannath. As the row over falling of Lord Balabhadra on 'charamala' during Adapa Bije Pahandi rituals continues to rage, Padhee said any act of indiscipline on the chariots or during the rituals will be dealt with strictly. Overcrowding of the three chariots - Taladhwaja, Darpadalana and Nandighosha - will be prevented by allowing only designated servitors on the chariots during Bahuda, Niladri Bije and other rituals.

WHEN NUMISMATICS OPEN WINDOW TO WORLD HISTORY

BOSKY KHANNA @Bengaluru

EVERYONE has heard and read mythological tales of Ashwamedha Yagas, where a ruler would set his horse free to wander and if it was captured by any king there would be war. Many believe it to be just a tale.

But here is a coin to show and prove that such events did occur. The Ashwamedha gold dinara coin was minted during the Samudra Gupta period (334-370 CE). It has a writing in Brahmi script and depicts the queen -- Dattadevi -- wife of Samudra Gupta, as a goddess, standing on a lotus shaped pedestal on one side and on a sacrificial horse with all its four limbs on the other side.

Archie Maru, a numismatist and member of the Karnataka Numismatic Society (KNS), said that generally, writings on coins start from the 8 o'clock position. But on this coin, it starts from the 6 o'clock position. This is the first time that the coin is on display. The Gupta period from 320-550 CE is called the golden era and the coin shows just that, he said.

Visitors at Nanya Darshini-2024, an exhibition of rare coins and currencies organised by Karnataka Numismatic Society, in Bengaluru on Friday

It is on display at the Nanya Darshini- 2024 exhibition of rare coins, stamps, currency notes and heritage items, organised by KNS.

The exhibition also displays the silver bent bar coin of the Gandhar dynasty, which ruled from 600 BCE to 300 CE. "This is known as the first Indian coin, minted at Gandhara Janapada, the present day Kandahar in Afghanistan. The coin has no script. It has two floral prints and experts are still trying to ascertain what they mean," he added.

These are not the only unique displays at the exhibition. One can see the famous heritage Black Penny stamp, which is the world's first postage stamp issued on May 1, 1840. There is also a four-anna Queen Victoria stamp released by the East India Company in India in 1854 and the world's only seven-digit currency note of 1917.

To catch the attention of youngsters, there are revolving coins, one honouring the Indian cricket team, coins dedicated to Panchatantra tales, Hollywood movies and famous movie characters. There are also old artifacts on display and sale including vintage pocket watches, dinner table sets, stamps and currency notes from across the globe.

Fake stamps, coins common now

Bengaluru: Numismatic exhibitions are good learning grounds for citizens, especially children and youth. These events are needed to prevent fake and artificial items penetrating the circles, said Rajendra Maru, president, Karnataka Numismatic Society (KNS). Speaking on the sidelines at the inauguration of the three-day numismatic exhibition - Nanya Darshini-2024, organised by KNS, he said that most collectors are aged between 50 and 85, and there are hardly any young collectors now. Such exhibitions help bridge the age and experience gap and also educate people on how to identify genuine and fake items, he added. Fakes are increasingly being found not just in new collections, but old ones too. Detailed security checks are needed when purchasing and selling items. As the number of collectors is decreasing, the penetration of illegal items has gone up as they are cheap and can be passed off easily, he said. KNS is one of the oldest societies of India with the highest number of 1,300 members. The country has 10 registered societies and eight auction houses. At the exhibition, the youngest numismatist was 10 years old, while the oldest was 84. Lavith Nella, a Grade 7 student from Sudarshan Vidya Mandir, said he liked the coins of Tughlaq dynasty as they are reading about it in their history class. His friend D Sai Valli said she liked the Pandya dynasty coins as that is also a part of their syllabus.

INDIA NEEDS TO CREATE MORE PRODUCTIVE, NON-FARM JOBS

INDIA'S unemployment data is back in the news again. While official data shows that the country has been generating jobs and creating opportunities, private estimates indicate otherwise. First up, a Citigroup report stressed that even with a 7 percent GDP growth rate, India can generate only about 80-90 lakh jobs a year at best, as against the needed 1.1-1.2 crore. To which, the Ministry of Labour and Employment issued a rebuttal stating that India generated over 8 crore jobs between 2017-18 and 2021-22. In other words, an average of over 2 crore jobs were created each year, notwithstanding the impact of the pandemic. The RBI, too, released fresh data that estimated 4.67 crore newer jobs added in 2023-24, while the growth rate doubled to 6 percent in 2023-24 from 3.2 percent a year ago.

In the five years between 2017-18 and 2022-23, the official data shows the labour force participation rate increased from 49.8 percent to 57.9 percent, while the unemployment rate among those 15 years and above fell from 6 percent to 3.2 percent. Helpfully, the number of women joining the labour market is rising and so is the self-employed category. What is upsetting, though, is the declining labour productivity, or the value added per worker. RBI data confirms that labour productivity stood at the lowest rung in agriculture, construction and trade—segments known for mass job creation. Separately, a recent survey of the unincorporated sector, too, points out that a sizeable section of the labour force continues to be engaged in the less productive informal sector.

In 2022-23, the number of informal sector firms stood at 6.5 crore, and roughly 11 crore workers were engaged in these units. However, the value added per worker stood at a fraction of that in the formal sector. The data also shows that informal sector employment rose from 97.9 million in 2021-22 to 109.6 million in 2022-23, but remains below the pre-pandemic level of 111.3 million in 2015-16. The opposition is hammering home the point that India is facing the highest rate of joblessness in 45 years, a claim they have been maintaining for the past five years; the government has been dismissing such claims. But what is undeniable is the need to create more productive, non-farm employment. The forthcoming Union Budget will be a good place to start.

PARENTS, SCHOOLS MUST BE ALERT ON DRINK-DRIVING

CHILDREN are not safe on the streets of Bengaluru—even when they are being ferried in school vans and buses. The city's traffic police conducted a surprise morning check of 3,016 school vehicles earlier this week and found 23 drivers under the influence of alcohol. This negligence has dismayed parents and led to a public outrage over the casual attitude of the school managements and transport firms. It heightens the risk of schoolchildren being involved in accidents. Bengaluru city reports an average of eight accidents a day—281 accidents claimed 291 lives from January to May 2024, while 841 non-fatal accidents left over 1,100 injured. It's also not the first time drink-driving checks were done on school-bus drivers. The authorities have charged the failing drivers under the Motor Vehicles Act (MVA) and seized their licences. School managements could be booked under Section 75 of the Juvenile Justice Act for endangering schoolchildren; it prescribes imprisonment of three years and a fine.

Drink-driving is explicitly forbidden under Section 185 of the MVA—drivers whose blood alcohol concentration exceeds the prescribed limit of 0.03 percent can be fined ₹10,000 or imprisoned for up to 6 months, or both. When a Maharashtra politician's son, Mihir Shah, recently knocked down a scooter with his BMW in Mumbai, dragged a woman for 1.5 km and then reversed over her, he was reportedly drunk. So too was the teenager who mowed down two techies with his Porsche in Pune. We can definitely do without such reckless drivers, especially when the passengers are children. School managements must take responsibility for providing safe transport and ensure that drivers undergo breathalyser tests, especially when they charge exorbitant fees for the transport.

It is not uncommon to see school kids packed like sardines in a van, hanging out of autorickshaws, or even riding bus footboards. There have been occasions when small children have been run over by school vans, or even sexually abused by van workers. A series of child rapes on Bengaluru's school campuses in 2014 had led to guidelines being drawn up, recommending the installation of close-circuit cameras on campus, GPS on schoolbuses and verification of staffers. In such a vulnerable scenario, it is also up to parents to be alert and engage with school managements and traffic authorities for their children's safety.

QUICK TAKE

LEVEL THE PLAYING COURT

WITH the Wimbledon finals drawing closer, we might want to look at a paper on tennis's inequality problem published in the Berkeley Economic Review. Calling it "the biggest unforced error in sports", it explains how uneven the income distribution among tennis players is. Novak Djokovic in 2014 earned 10 times more than Fernando Verdasco, another pro who had competed in all Grand Slams that year. The tennis field is much more unequal than the basketball or baseball ones, the paper shows. The trouble is in the prize money structures. It is yet another reason for governments to support athletes in individual sports as much as in team ones like cricket.

The Modi govt has broadened India's relationships with Russia as well as with US & its allies. It's about protecting core national interests while building on convergences & managing differences

MODI EMBRACES THE BEAR AS THE EAGLE LOOKS ON

P S RAGHAVAN

Distinguished Fellow, Vivekananda International Foundation, and a former diplomat

PRIME Minister Narendra Modi's recent visit to Moscow attracted extraordinary global attention. It was his first visit after Russia's invasion of Ukraine and the first bilateral visit of his third term. It roughly coincided with a NATO summit, which was formulating strategies to defeat Russia in Ukraine. It commenced on a day when a barrage of Russian missiles hit Ukrainian cities; one allegedly hit a children's hospital in Kyiv.

The timing of his visit, the demonstration of his personal chemistry with Russian President Vladimir Putin and fulsome praise for his contribution to the India-Russia partnership all sought to convey that the partnership—shaped by history, geography and economic interests—would survive the current global geopolitical flux.

The history is well-known: political, economic and military relations forged during Cold War. A legacy is Russian military equipment forms over 60 percent of Indian armed forces' inventory. The transfer of weapons and military technologies continued as the US and allies dragged their feet on lifting technology restrictions on India.

The geography is equally compelling. Russia straddles the Eurasian landmass from Central Asia to the Caucasus, which is important for India's security interests and strategic ambitions. Sandwiched between Russia and China, Central Asia is India's near-neighbour, bordering Iran, Afghanistan and Pakistan-occupied Kashmir. It is dominated by Russia and China, but now has many regional and extra-regional actors jostling for influence. India needs to closely monitor the interplay of forces here, keeping Russia onside in this endeavour.

Connectivity is key for effective presence in this region. This explains the importance of the trade corridor from India to Central Asia through Iran—the International North–South Transport Corridor (INSTC)—that India, Iran and Russia have been trying to operationalise for years. Refinement of logistical arrangements for this was discussed during Modi's visit. INSTC could boost India's trade with Eurasia to $170 billion from under $15 billion today.

Over the years, the Modi government has striven to broad-base the relationship to encompass energy, industry, agriculture, natural resources and niche technologies. Bilateral trade has burgeoned to over $66 billion, though most of it is Russian export of hydrocarbons. Balancing this has been a subject of discussion. Payment difficulties arising from western sanctions are partly to blame. A bilateral settlement system using national currencies is a solution under discussion. Russia's huge rupee reserves open the possibility of joint ventures in India for manufacture of a range of industrial products, including defence components.

MANDAR PARDIKAR

Indian companies have invested billions of dollars in Russian hydrocarbon projects. Six nuclear power plants are being constructed with Russian collaboration in TN, of which two are already in operation.

The surge in Indian purchase of Russian oil over the past two years, after EU banned Russian imports, has fed domestic consumption and served demand for refined products in Europe, which continue to criticise India for "circumventing" sanctions. Modi subtly addressed this hypocrisy by remarking that India's imports of Russian oil helped stabilise the global hydrocarbons market.

Even while sustaining the Russia relationship, India has fast-tracked relations with the US and allies, which have acquired extraordinary breadth and depth, embracing trade, investment, technology, defence and deep cooperation on a range of bilateral and international issues. Intensifying US consciousness of the Chinese challenge to its global dominance coincided with rising Indian concerns over border tensions with China and apprehensions of the latter's ambitions in our continental and maritime neighbourhood. This convergence forged a strong India-US strategic partnership (which is not entirely friction-free, as we saw in recent months). Engagement in the Quad and other cooperative mechanisms has cemented ties. Our expanding economy attracts international companies barred from Russia and discouraged from China.

These factors have expanded space for India to pursue its interests with Russia. In 2018, the US threatened sanctions if India acquired the Russian S-400 air defence system. Modi went ahead with the acquisition. The sanctions did not materialise.

Meanwhile, India has diversified arms procurement to expand choice and promote indigenisation. Russia's share in India's arms imports fell from 56 percent in 2015-19 to 36 percent in 2019-23. France, Israel and the US occupied the vacated space.

Modi's visit was criticised abroad for undermining the international isolation of Russia and Putin. This narrative ignores the fact that countries like Vietnam, Saudi Arabia and UAE have recently rolled out the red carpet for Putin, and many non-Western leaders have been visiting Russia. The nation's political isolation does not extend much beyond the western world.

Modi addressed the Russian missile strikes in this meeting, when he invoked the ravages of war, including the heart-breaking loss of children's lives, and revealed it had figured in their discussions. Modi said he was encouraged by thoughts emerging from their mutually respectful conversation and affirmed India was committed to working towards peace. Speaking before Modi, Putin also referred to that conversation, thanking the Indian PM for exploring options to resolve the "Ukraine crisis" by peaceful means. It is not clear if this signalled the possibility of a breakthrough.

The elephant in the room, not recognised publicly, was China. It would certainly have figured in closed-door discussions. The Russia-China strategic partnership has been under intense focus, particularly after Ukraine's invasion. As Russia-West relations have plunged, its dependence on Chinese political and economic support has grown. Indian strategists worry about this dependence diluting Russian sensitivity to our interests. Russia has, by actions and in interactions, sought to assuage these apprehensions. India will continue to keenly monitor weaponry and technologies transfers, intelligence-sharing, and actions in international forums on India's core interests.

India-Russia relations will remain sensitive to the geopolitical flux. Geography, economics and Eurasian politics create overlapping interests. Both countries seek a multipolar world, though their definitions vary. Each pursues strategies based on opportunities and challenges. Unlike during the Cold War, their interests are not congruent. It means building on convergences and managing differences, so that they do not impact core national interests. Enlightened diplomacy should ensure India's shared interests with Russia do not clash with those of its other strategic partners.

TOO OLD TO ROCK-N-ROLL, TOO YOUNG TO STEP ASIDE?

MADHAVAN NARAYANAN

Senior journalist

REVERSE SWING

IN the US, rock music is a religion—and is perhaps the richest cultural field to mine for metaphors while discussing the controversies surrounding President Joe Biden's re-election hiccups. Biden, aged 81, is not exactly 'rocking' it, unless you take that to be a euphemism for doddering. However, his supporters, who seem to be dwindling, think he is okay to remain in the job as the world's most powerful man—a title that is as much in doubt as the current incumbent's capabilities. Biden is already the oldest serving president the US has had, beating Ronald Reagan, who was 77 when he left office.

Biden must have chosen to ignore British rock group Jethro Tull's song of existential angst, 'Too old to rock-n-roll, too young to die', which takes a cynical-yet-hopeful look at an ageing rocker. It seems the Democratic leader prefers lyrics from Canadian rockstar Bryan Adams, whose song 'Eighteen till I die' starts with, "I wanna be young the rest of my life/ Never say no, try anything twice/ 'Til the angels come, and ask me to fly." And so, Biden remains a rockstar for his eager hangers-on.

Whether Biden is right to keep the job depends on who you are talking to and how you look at it. We live in the age of ageism as a scourge. Millennials and Gen Z-ers are constantly reminding those born before personal computers that they are of a different era. If we fight sexism, why not counter ageism?

Age, as they say, is only a number. At 78, Donald Trump, Biden's rival in the race to the White House, is not far behind the president. History books tell us that William Ewart Gladstone was 82 years and 231 days young when he took office as the British prime minister for the final time and retired only when he was 84. Morarji Desai became India's premier when he was 81.

But age is one thing, and fitness for the job quite another. That is where all the dank memes on Biden are at.

One newspaper report said that, at the 2022 G7 meeting, Biden had skipped a scheduled meeting with German Chancellor Olaf Scholz to "go to bed". After Biden's disastrous performance in the presidential debate against Trump last month, a White House physician was forced to clarify that a neurologist who had visited the presidential premises a number of times was consulted only as part of the annual physical check-up routine. If Biden is indeed as fit as a fiddle—or a well-tuned electric guitar—we may link his debate disaster to the title of a Pink Floyd album, 'A Momentary Lapse of Reason'.

Well, it was not quite momentary. You only have to search "Biden forgets" on Google News to realise that his forgetfulness has become quite memorable. The numerous lapses indicate his alertness requires some examination.

AFP

Joe Biden is now a target of memes about his gaffes. Maybe the US president prefers the theme of Canadian rockstar Bryan Adams's song 'Eighteen till I die'. On the other hand, Kerala CM Pinarayi Vijayan remains a strong 'Marx-darshak' at age 79

But he is doing fine as an older gentleman. It is the presidency, the so-called nuclear 'football' and the superpowerdom that worry Americans like Mark Warner, who is reported to be assembling fellow Democratic Senators to request Biden to step aside.

Then you have to look at Trump, as many do, to defend Biden. Trump faced 34 criminal charges of falsifying business records related to "hush money" payments made to porn star Stormy Daniels before the 2016 presidential election, and was found guilty.

The Biden camp may well declare him to be more "morally fit" than Trump, though the president's son Hunter Biden's misadventures on charges of drug use or gun possession are of political significance in this election season. In front of the charges Trump faces, Hunter's acts seem a minor misadventure. Substance use is seen by some in the US as regular rockstar behaviour. And, after all, you just cannot compare Jack Daniel's with Stormy Daniels.

But what can Washington possibly do to save its global superstardom? The US could swallow its pride and learn from its former rulers, the UK, to make Biden something like the departed British head of state, Queen Elizabeth II. He could be a non-monarchical figurehead and let someone else run the show while he presides over ribbon-cutting. Amiable and sharply-dressed, Biden can be majestic while waving his hand from a distance. He also has a lifetime of practice in saying warm things in a respectable voice. This political reverse swing would be the closest the Americans ever again get to royalty.

If this is too un-republican for the world's most prominent democracy, the US could pick a leaf out of India, the world's most populous if not the oldest. Biden may be made a margdarshak or guide for the administration, as we have referred to some senior leaders in India. One way or another, a ceremonial presidency may be a good idea over a unitary, all-too-powerful executive.

Whatever the way, age is not the issue. You only have to look at Kerala Chief Minister Pinarayi Vijayan. At 79 years, his moves are strong and at times even sprightly. In his party, the CPI(M), gerontocracy is a tradition respected by the young; though in 2021 the party spoiled the silver show by setting the retirement age for its politburo members at 75. But being a governing Marx-darshak at his age is apparently not an issue.

Politically aimed

Ref: Rescuing India from the altar of bigotry (Jul 12). The nation needs harmonious living of all citizens. Religious clashes were there in India before Modi became PM, but as they were daily occurrences, it didn't make news. The underlying intention of this article seems to be not solace but appeasement, and is politically aimed.
Asokakumar V, Thrikkunnapuzha

Balanced perspective

It is indisputable that during campaigning in Rajasthan's Banswara, Modi overstepped in his utterances. But it has to be remembered that it was not the Congress that was in power for many decades, yet the BJP-led government enacted the triple-talaq law, which is a big help for Muslim women. The title shows the author's earnestness to blow things out of proportion by painting the government with a wrong brush.
R Sridharan, Chennai

Communities' concern

The author seems to be one-sided in his perspective and judgement of things, especially religious fanaticism and aggression, finding everything negative only among Hindus and seeing entire other communities as paragons of peace. One must understand that there are violent people in all faiths.

Evolved jurisprudence

Ref: Delhi Univ V-C nixes proposal to add Manusmriti readings in LLB (Jul 12). This proposal of the Delhi University was regressive. The Manusmriti is an antithesis of the dictum that all are equal before the law. One need not be a legal scholar to understand that the laws of Manu will hardly be relevant to the present times. Modern-day jurisprudence is a product of evolution and is not static.
S Balu, Madurai

Against progress

It would have been disastrous if the Manusmriti were included in the DU's LLB course. It would be completely adverse to the progress and development of women and marginalised people. It would encourage casteism, the main reason for our backwardness.

Costly gaffe

US President Joe Biden's gaffe at the NATO summit in introducing Ukraine's Zelenskyy as Russia's Putin will be costly. There is already rising clamour in the US on his lack of fitness to contest the presidential election. Such repeated slips of tongue will certainly diminish the chances for his party.

Mamata govt says Guv sitting on bills, moves SC

SUCHITRA KALYAN MOHANTY
@ New Delhi

AMID rift with the Governor, the West Bengal government on Friday filed a writ petition in the Supreme Court against the former for withholding assent to eight bills.

The petition, which was filed under Article 32 before the top court, said the Governor's refusal to give assent to the bills without stating any reason was in direct contravention to the mandate of Article 200 of the Constitution.

Astha Sharma, the lawyer appearing for the West Bengal state, mentioned the petition before Chief Justice of India DY Chandrachud for urgent listing. The CJI agreed to consider the request, although he did not give any particular date for hearing the case.

Despite the Governor being aware of the decisions of this court in similar circumstances for the states of Telangana and Punjab, still several crucial Bills have been lying dormant with the Governor since 2022, the State government's plea said.

It cited that the apex court had passed several directions in the case against Telangana Governor that Governors should return the bills as soon as possible in terms of the mandate of Article 200.

Reference is also made to the direction passed in the case against the Punjab Governor that Governors cannot veto the legislature by simply sitting over the bills.

"The Governor's omission threatened to "defeat and subvert" democratic good governance and infringed upon the rights of the people of the State to the welfare measures sought to be implemented through the bills," the plea added.

The plea of the Bengal government said that once the bills have been passed by a majority in the State Legislative Assembly, the Governor is required to act within the scheme of the Constitution.

"The conduct of the Governor, not only threatens to defeat and subvert the very fundamentals and basic foundation of our Constitution. It also defeats the purpose, including the rule of law and democratic good governance. This kind of act further proceeds to infringe upon the rights of the people of the State to the welfare measures sought to be implemented through the bills," the plea said.

PIL seeking Hathras probe by expert panel nixed

The Supreme Court on Friday refused to entertain a PIL seeking a probe into the Hathras stampede that left 121 dead, and asked the petitioner to move the Allahabad High Court. A bench comprising Chief Justice D Y Chandrachud and justices JB Pardiwala and Manoj Misra said such incidents are 'disturbing' but the high courts are equipped to deal with such cases. "Of course, these are disturbing incidents. This (filing of PIL) is usually done here to make a big deal of such incidents. The high court is equipped to deal with this case. Dismissed," it said.

Haryana govt asked to remove Shambhu border blockade, regulate traffic

Pulling up the Haryana authorities for blocking the highway, the SC questioned how a state could block a highway? "The govt has a duty to regulate traffic. We are saying open it, but regulate," it said.

SUCHITRA KALYAN MOHANTY @ New Delhi

THE Supreme Court on Friday asked the Haryana government to remove the barricading at the Shambhu border crossing since February to prevent farmers from protesting.

Pulling up the Haryana authorities for blocking the highway, a two-judge bench of Justices Surya Kant and Ujjal Bhuyan questioned how a state could block a highway? "The govt has a duty to regulate traffic. We are saying open it, but regulate," the bench told the lawyer appearing for the state.

The apex court passed the remarks on being apprised by a Haryana government lawyer that it was in the process of filing an appeal against the July 10 Punjab and Haryana High Court order directing the state to open the highway within seven days.

After hearing the lawyer's submissions, a court questioned the Haryana government "Why did you want to challenge the HC's order? Farmers are also citizens of this country. Give them food and good medical care. They will raise slogans and go back," it said.

The Punjab and Haryana HC had, on July 10, ordered the Haryana government to clear within a week the barricading at the Shambhu border. The SC was hearing the SLP filed by the Haryana govt challenging the judicial probe earlier ordered by the Punjab and Haryana High Court in connection with the death of a 22-year-old, a protesting farmer, Shubhkaran Singh, during the agitation of farmers at the Punjab-Haryana border.

Cong hits back at govt, says trying to duck real issues

PREETHA NAIR @ New Delhi

IN a sharp response to the Modi government's move to declare June 25, the day Emergency was declared in 1975, as 'Samvidhaan Hatya Diwas', the Congress on Friday said that the BJP has been celebrating 'Constitution Murder Day every day' in last 10 years.

Congress President Mallikarjun Kharge accused the BJP-RSS of trying to abolish the Constitution and implement Manusmriti. He said, "They are doing this so that the rights of Dalits, tribals and backward classes can be attacked."

The party also said that every year on November 8, the day when demonetisation was announced in 2016, people will celebrate "Aajivika Hatya Diwas" and a gazette notification will also be issued soon.

The Congress' reaction came after Home Minister Amit Shah announced that the government has decided to observe June 25 as 'Samvidhaan Hatya Diwas' to commemorate the "massive contributions" of those who endured inhuman pains during the period.

Congress general secretary Jairam Ramesh said, "Yet another headline grabbing exercise in hypocrisy by the non-biological PM who had imposed an undeclared Emergency for ten years before the people of India handed him a decisive personal, political, and moral defeat on June 4, 2024 - which will go down in history as Modi Mukti Diwas."

A gazette notification issued on Friday notes that Emergency was declared on June 25, 1975, following which there was "gross abuse of power by the government of the day and people of India were subjected to excesses and atrocities".

Spare Smriti of trolls, don't be nasty: Rahul

PREETHA NAIR @ New Delhi

LEADER of Opposition in the Lok Sabha Rahul Gandhi on Friday appealed to people to refrain from using derogatory language and being nasty towards former Union minister Smriti Irani after her defeat in the Lok Sabha polls.

His remarks came a day after Irani faced massive trolling on social media after she vacated her official bungalow at 28 Tughlak Crescent in Lutyens' Delhi. Irani lost to Congress' Kishori Lal Sharma, a close aide of the Gandhi family from Amethi parliamentary seat by a margin of over 1.6 lakh votes. Many users took to X and reminded Irani how she challenged Rahul Gandhi during the LS election campaigns.

"Winning and losing happens in life. I urge everyone to refrain from using derogatory language and being nasty towards Smriti Irani or any other leader for that matter," Gandhi said. Irani was called a 'giant slayer' in 2019 after she defeated Gandhi from Amethi for over 50, 000 votes.

"Humiliating and insulting people are a sign of weakness, not strength," Rahul said. Gandhi's post grabbed eyeballs as many users including Congress leaders appreciated the 'magnanimity' of the leader in defending his political rival.

After her defeat, Irani said that she will continue to serve the people of Amethi. "I am grateful to PM Narendra Modi and CM Yogi Adityanath that their governments have completed the pending works of 30 years in five years. I congratulate those who win," she said.

However, the BJP's IT department head Amit Malviya hit back at Gandhi, accusing him of putting out a disingenuous message after "unleashing" Congress leaders like "a pack of wolves" on her.

Army to be deployed in hills to thwart terrorist movement

The aim is to boost the morale of the local populace, who are feeling unsafe in the wake of a series of terror attacks in Jammu region. The security agencies need to do more than eliminating foreign terrorists
A govt official

Caves used as hideouts
Terrorists use natural caves in the hills as hideouts, so the troops have been instructed to identify them and carry out operations to eliminate the terrorists from there, the sources said.

MUKESH RANJAN @ New Delhi

AFTER the recent terror strikes, the Centre has decided to deploy Army and paramilitary personnel for patrolling the hills in the Jammu region as security officials suspected that the high spots facing the roads were being used by terrorists to launch their attacks, sources said on Friday.

Instructions have been passed on to the Army by the Defence Ministry and the CRPF by the Union Home Ministry to start deploying personnel at their designated hills in Rajouri, Poonch, Doda, Kishtwar, Udhampur, Kathua and Reasi, the sources said,

"The aim is to boost the morale of the local populace, who are feeling unsafe in the wake of a series of terror attacks in Jammu region. The security agencies need to do more than eliminating foreign terrorists," a source said. People living near the hills feel that they too could become soft targets of terrorists, he added.

According to the ground reports presented to the government, terrorists are found using natural caves in the hills as hideouts, so the troops have been instructed to identify them and carry out operations to eliminate the terrorists from there, the sources said.

They said the hills facing towards roads, which are also used by the Army, paramilitary forces and Jammu & Kashmir police for patrolling, would also be provided security cover. The sources said the forces would now cordon the hilly areas so that the terrorists cannot escape and the ground teams would be supported by modern surveillance devices. Sniffer dog units of the Army are also being deployed there, they added.

Hunt for terrorists linked to Kathua attack enters 4th day

No contact has been established with militants involved in the attack so far. They have not been sighted since then but the massive manhunt is continuing.

Devising strategies
To bolster security apparatus, a high-level security review meeting was held in Kathua to devise strategies to counter the new challenges emerging from militant attacks in Jammu region.

FAYAZ WANI @ Srinagar

EVEN as a massive search operation continued for the fourth day in forest areas of Kathua and adjoining districts in Jammu and Kashmir following the July 8 militant attack on an army convoy, there has been no contact with the militants involved in the deadly ambush in which five soldiers were killed.

A security official said security forces are using drones, UAVs, helicopters and sniffer dogs to track down the movement of the militants who, according to security officials, are using the caves in the dense forest areas as their hide-outs.

"No contact has been established with the militants involved in the July 8 attack so far. They have not been sighted since then but the massive manhunt is continuing. We are hopeful that we will soon track and kill them," he said.

The security forces have questioned over 50 people so far but the success to track down the militants has so far eluded them. At least 75 persons including 42 security men and 19 civilians were killed in militant attacks and encounters in Jammu region in the last two and a half years.

To bolster security apparatus and to focus on enhancing coordination and synergy among BSF, Punjab Police, and J&K Police, a high-level security review meeting was held in Kathua to devise strategies to counter the new challenges emerging from militant attacks in Jammu region.

Meanwhile, police and army launched searches in Guda Patan and Kana Chak areas in Akhnoor border belt in Jammu district after villagers noticed suspicious movement of three persons in the area.

Snow cover dips in Himalayan river basins

HARPREET BAJWA @ Chandigarh

CLIMATE change is the prime reason for a decreasing snow cover in the main river channels of Himachal Pradesh, according to a report of the State Centre on Climate Change under the aegis of the Himachal Pradesh Council for Science Technology and Environment (HIMCOSTE).

The report cites an overall decline in the snow cover area by 12.72% in the basins of the Chenab, Ravi, Beas and the Sutlej during 2023-24 compared to the total area under snow in the 2022-23 winter period.

The comparative steepest decline in the snow cover was in January – 67% in the Sutlej basin, 64% in the Ravi basin, 43% in the Beas basin and 42% in the Chenab basin.

The snow cover in February and March showed a positive trend in all basins, the report pointed out.

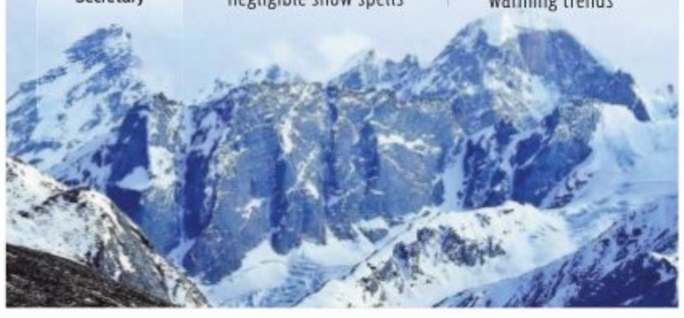
The winter precipitation was mapped in all basins, including the Chandra, Bhaga, Miyar, Beas, Parvati, Jiwa, Pin, Spiti and Baspa between October 2023 and April 2024. It was also seen that during the peak winter months of December-February, all basins showed a declining trend except the Sutlej basin, which showed a 2% positive trend.

With reduced snowfall in winters year after year, we have to think of ways to meet shortage of water.
Prabodh Saxena, Himachal Chief Secretary

'Most glaciers are losing mass'

- Temperatures on higher Himalayan region comparatively higher than the low-lying areas. Result: Most glaciers are losing mass.
- Big shift observed in the snowfall patterns during winters affecting the river discharge in summers
- Rising temp in winters has led to Shimla getting negligible snow spells

WHAT THE STUDY SAYS
- In Oct-Jan, less area under snow in all basins
- Worst was in January when all basins saw a decrease in snow cover
- No snowfall at higher reaches even, which may be due to higher warming trends



The report stated that the basin-wise analysis carried out from October 2023 to April 2024 and its comparison with that of 2022-23 reveals that all the four basins under investigation show varying results in October wherein the Chenab basin occupies about 50% of the total basin area under snow. The other basins occupy Beas (31%), Ravi (21%) and Satluj (12% cent) respectively.

Based on the comparative analysis, it is found that the Chenab basin shows a decline of about 6%, the Beas 18% and Satluj about 48% in comparison with 2022-23 October. The Ravi showed a slight enhancement in its area under snow by about 1% in 2023-24.

Himachal Pradesh chief secretary Prabodh Saxena said based on various studies, the temperature in the higher Himalayan region is comparatively higher than the low-lying areas which is affecting Himalayan reserves and is evidenced by the fact that most of the glaciers are losing mass.

"The mapping of seasonal snow cover in terms of its spatial distribution at different river basins in Himachal Pradesh is done during the winter season from October to April. It is an important input for understanding the contribution of snow in different catchments to sustain the hydrology of the river basins," said DC Rana, director, Himachal Pradesh's environment department.

"A large shift has also been observed in the snowfall patterns during winters affecting the river discharge during the peak summer season. The rising temperature leads to, for instance, Shimla experiencing almost negligible snow spells. If this continues, we have to think of ways to find a solution to the shortage of water in the state capital in the coming years," said Saxena.

Not over yet, Covid still accounts for 1.7K deaths per week globally: WHO

KAVITA BAJELI-DATT @ New Delhi

COVID-19 is still killing around 1,700 people a week globally, the World Health Organization (WHO) said. The world health body urged at-risk populations to keep up with their vaccinations against the disease.

"Even as we continue to study the spread of H5N1, we also continue to study COVID-19, which still kills an average of 1,700 people globally every week," WHO Director-General Tedros Adhanom Ghebreyesus said.

"However, data show that vaccine coverage has declined among health workers and people over 60, two of the most at-risk groups."

"WHO recommends that people in the highest-risk groups receive a COVID-19 vaccine within 12 months of their last dose," he said.

In India, a total of 25,923 COVID-19 cases have been registered from January 1 to June 30, said Krishna Prasad N C, a Kerala-based COVID data analyst. He noted that India recorded a total of 240 deaths during this period.

The WHO declared an end to COVID-19 as an international public health emergency in May 2023, more than three years after the virus was first detected in Wuhan, China, in late 2019.

The WHO has urged governments to maintain virus surveillance and sequencing and to ensure access to affordable and reliable tests, treatments, and vaccines.

In its report in May, WHO said that the pandemic wiped out nearly a decade of progress in improving life expectancy within just two years.

Between 2019 and 2021, global life expectancy dropped by 1.8 years to 71.4 years, returning to the level of 2012. The report stated that the COVID-19 pandemic reversed the trend of steady gains in life expectancy at birth and healthy life expectancy at birth (HALE). It added that COVID-19 rapidly emerged as a leading cause of death, ranking as the third highest cause of mortality globally in 2020 and the second in 2021. Nearly 13 million lives were lost during this period.

MahaYuti wins all 9 council seats

Cong and Shiv Sena (UBT) win 1 seat each, but Sharad Pawar-backed party faces defeat

SUDHIR SURYAWANSHI @ Mumbai

> Five MLAs of Opposition supported us, I thank them. When there are elections, allegations are made. But I do not think about them. Mahayuti should get such success in the state assembly election as well —Ajit Pawar, Deputy Chief Minister

IN a morale booster, the ruling MahaYuti alliance of the BJP, Shiv Sena (Shinde) and NCP in Maharashtra on Friday won all the nine seats it contested in the biennial elections to 11 seats for the state legislative council.

The Congress and Shiv Sena (UBT) respectively won one seat each but Sharad Pawar-backed Peasant and Workers party (PWP) candidate lost the election. The Mahayuti lost massively in the recent Lok Sabha polls, managing to win only 17 seats out of 48.

In the results announced in the evening for the polls conducted earlier in the day, the BJP won five seats, while Chief Minister Eknath Shinde-led Shiv Sena and the Ajit Pawar-led Nationalist Congress Party (NCP) bagged two each.

From the opposition Maha Vikas Aghadi (MVA), Milind Narvekar, close aide of Shiv Sena (UBT) chief Uddhav Thackeray, and Congress candidate Pradnya Satav won the elections. Peasants and Workers' Party (PWP) candidate Jayant Patil, who was supported by Sharad Pawar-led NCP (SP), lost the polls.

The election was necessitated as 11 members of the legislative council (MLCs) are completing their six-year term on July 27. The 288-member legislative assembly was the electoral college for the polls and its current strength is 274.

Each winning candidate required a quota of 23 first-preference votes. The BJP is the largest party in the assembly with 103 members, followed by the Shiv Sena (38), NCP (42), Congress (37), Shiv Sena (UBT) 15 and NCP (SP) 10.

The BJP had fielded five candidates -- former Maharashtra minister Pankaja Munde, Yogesh Tilekar, Parinay Phuke, Amit Gorkhe and Sadabhau Khot, and its ally Shiv Sena two -- former Lok Sabha MPs Krupal Tumane and Bhavana Gawali. NCP had given tickets to Shivajirao Garje and Rajesh Vitekar. The Congress had nominated Satav for another term, while Sena (UBT) had fielded Narvekar.

The third MVA constituent, NCP (SP), did not field its nominee and instead extended support to PWP's Jayant Patil.

Deputy Chief Minister Ajit Pawar said, "Five MLAs of Opposition supported us, I thank them. When there are elections, allegations are made, But I do not think about them. Mahayuti should get such success in the state assembly election as well." CM Eknath Shinde said the victory of all nine ruling alliance candidates in the council polls was a trailer ahead of the state assembly polls later this year.

Talking to reporters, Shinde said a false narrative was set by the opposition in the Lok Sabha polls and people were misled. "Mahayuti has registered a big win. This is a good start," he said. Deputy Chief Minister Devendra Fadnavis said the opposition was claiming a candidate of the ruling alliance would lose but the results showed the Mahayuti got votes of not just its constituents but even from Maha Vikas Aghadi legislators.

The results showed At least seven Congress MLAs defied the party's directive. Congress, which has 37 MLAs, had fixed a quota of 30 first preference votes for its candidate Pradyna Satav, and seven remaining votes were to go to Milind Narvekar, candidate of the ally Shiv Sena (UBT), sources said.

Nitish intensifies demand for special package for Bihar

RAMASHANKAR @ Patna

AHEAD of the union budget for FY 2024-25, Bihar Chief Minister Nitish Kumar-led Janata Dal (United) has intensified its demand for a special package for the state so that it could emerge as a developed state in the next five years.

Deputy Chief Minister Samrat Choudhary also met union Finance Minister Nirmala Sitharaman in New Delhi and held elaborate discussions with her to find out ways to accelerate the pace of Bihar's growth.

In the pre-budget meeting, both Sitharaman and Choudhary also deliberated upon issues like providing funds to Bihar for its speedy growth. Choudhary also holds the finance department.

On the other hand, deputy chief minister and senior BJP leader Vijay Kumar Sinha contended that the Centre would provide all possible help to Bihar for its speedy growth. "We are hopeful of getting full support from the Centre on development issues," he told the media.

The JD(U)'s support to the Narendra Modi government at the centre is important for its stability and the former is likely to extract the maximum possible financial package from the Centre. With the special assistance from the Centre, Nitish wants to implement various people-oriented schemes with accelerated pace before the state assembly election due next year, remarked political analyst Pramod Kumar.

The Centre is expected to give something substantial to the state in the union budget but if it did not happen, it could even cast shadow on the relationship between BJP and JD(U), he added.

JD(U) in its national executive meeting held on June 29 had unanimously passed a resolution, stating that Bihar would be put on high growth trajectory if it was accorded special category status.

At that time, RJD had launched a blistering attack on JD (U), accusing it of climbing down from its earlier demand of special status to Bihar. Newly appointed JD(U) general secretary Manish Verma had said his party would persuade Centre to grant special status.

BJP veteran urges CM to clean 'dirt in govt'

Veteran BJP politician and former MP Raghunandan Sharma has urged the MP CM Dr Mohan Yadav to purge the "invisible dirt which exists in government and administration" of the state. Addressing an event (where the CM was also present) marking the cleanliness drive of a lake in Bhopal, the 78-year-old former Rajya Sabha member said, "You (CM) have started a cleanliness drive of a small lake. You have to run a cleanliness campaign in shashan and prashasan (government and administration as a lot of dirt exists there. I am confident you are capable of cleaning it because of your energy," he said.

CM wants agriculture as subject in high school

CM Dr Mohan Yadav has emphasised on introducing agriculture, horticulture, fisheries, dairy and animal husbandry as subjects in high school and higher secondary classes in government schools of the state. He has particularly advocated for prioritising these subjects in the CM Rise Schools, suggesting that students should have the freedom to choose subjects based on their interests, similar to higher education systems. To implement this initiative at the school level, he has instructed to form a task force comprising educationists, teachers, voluntary organizations, and subject experts.

No power subsidies to those who pay income tax in Himachal: Sukhu

HARPREET BAJWA @ Chandigarh

THE Himachal Pradesh cabinet decided on Friday to withdraw the free electricity scheme for all income-tax payers due to the poor financial health of the Himachal Pradesh State Electricity Board.

In a meeting, the state cabinet approved the rationalization of the Zero Electricity Bill provisions for domestic consumers by restricting the subsidy to "One Family, One Meter" and interlinking the electricity connections with Aadhar-seeded ration cards.

The cabinet decided to abolish the entire subsidy for the Chief Minister, Ex-Chief Ministers, Speaker, Deputy Speaker, Ministers, Ex-Ministers, MPs, Ex-MPs, MLAs, Ex-MLAs, Chairman of Boards/Advisors, OSDs, all Class-I and Class-II employees of the Government, Corporations, Boards, including IAS officers, IPS officers, HPS officers, HAS officers, Forest Officers, Judicial Officers, all government Class A and Class B contractors, and all income tax payers. The 125-unit free power subsidy to domestic consumers will continue for all other categories, including BPL and IRDP families.

This decision comes in response to the dire financial state of the electricity board, which is burdened with about Rs 1000 crore and struggling to pay its employees. The free electricity scheme, introduced during 2021-22, provided relief to those consuming up to 125 units, but the losses incurred by the electricity board necessitated this rollback.

Notably, the provision for free electricity will continue for BPL families. Additionally, affluent people had installed multiple meters at their residences to exploit the scheme. Henceforth, only one meter per household will be eligible for free electricity scheme. Despite the rollback, 80 per cent of the electricity consumers, out of the total 23 lakh, will continue benefiting from the scheme, affecting only about 20 per cent, sources said.

SERI SINKING

NARENDRA SETHI @ Dehradun

IN a situation akin to the natural land disaster in Joshimath, Seri village in Bageshwar district is grappling with land submergence, leaving villagers in a state of constant fear. The Uttarakhand district disaster management office claims to have relocated eight affected families from Seri village, citing geologists' reports. However, villagers allege that many more families remain in peril, exposing a gap between official claims and the actual situation on the ground.

Elderly residents of Seri village, located 40 kilometers from Bageshwar district headquarters, are worried about the future of their village. Villagers are unable to even move a chair in or out of their homes due to the precarious situation. The picturesque village of Seri, known for its stunning view of the Himalayas, is facing an uncertain future.

In a heartfelt conversation with The New Indian Express, Seri village head Rajendra Dhami shared his deep emotional connection to his ancestral land. "Our family has been living here for nine generations, since 1425. My grandfather, Ram Singh, was the village head in 1930", said Dhami.

Rajendra Dhami, who is the head of Seri village since 2019, told this newspaper, "The village has a total of 112 families, including 12 families from the Dhari and Dhaluda hamlets, which have been completely affected by the rains this monsoon and are now in danger. The administration has so far relocated 12 families from Seri, including two in 2013, four in 2016, and four in 2019, but still, 19 families remain in danger and are awaiting relocation."

An 80-year-old woman, Debki Devi, living in a dilapidated house in Seri village, has no one but her three goats as her only companions. Her husband and son passed away earlier. Her house is on the verge of collapse, with water seeping in, but there is no one to help her.

Speaking to this daily, Bageshwar District Magistrate Anuradha Pal said, "All the families displaced from the village have received compensation and assistance. They have been relocated successfully. Regarding the fresh cracks, the SDM will submit his report by Monday."

Lightning kills 25, injures 39 in Bihar

As many as 25 people died and 39 others were injured in lightning strikes across several districts of Bihar in the last 24 hours, officials said. Out of 25 people dead, five died in Madhubani, four in Aurangabad, three each in Supaul and Nalanda, two each in Patna

NGT notice to U'khand over Joshimath cracks

SHEKHAR SINGH @ New Delhi

THE National Green Tribunal (NGT) has directed the Uttarakhand chief secretary to submit an affidavit within six weeks outlining concrete actions taken to address the aftermath of land subsidence in Joshimath last year.

The tribunal is tasked with providing effective and expeditious remedies in cases relating to environmental protection, conservation of forests and other natural resources and enforcement of legal rights linked to the environment.

The "sinking" of roads and deep cracks in the walls of residential houses last year led to the displacement of scores of residents and caused extensive property. The tribunal has demanded accountability and effective remedial measures. Chairperson Justice Prakash Shrivastava, along with judicial member Justice Arun Kumar Tyagi and expert member Dr A Senthil Vel, expressed dissatisfaction with the progress report submitted by the state government on June 19, 2023. "It lacked in substantive action at the ground level," said the tribunal.

Ex-Cong MLA sworn in as cabinet minister in BJP

Induction of sixth time former Congress MLA Ramniwas Rawat in the Dr Mohan Yadav-led state cabinet on July 8 was marked by a bizarre development. The 64-year-old politician from Gwalior-Chambal region was administered oath of office and secrecy not once, but twice within 15 minutes. As he misread Rajye ke Mantri (minister of MP) as minister of state the first time, the oath had to be administered to him by Governor Mangubhai Patel twice in 15 minutes, after which he was inducted as a cabinet minister. Rawat, who joined BJP on March 30, mailed resignation as MLA to Assembly speaker after being sworn as a minister.

Land grabbing? Maha IAS officer's mom whips out gun, threatens farmers

SUDHIR SURYAWANSHI @ Mumbai

A video showing controversial IAS officer Puja Khedkar's mother threatening a group of farmers with a pistol has gone viral. Puja's mother Manorama Khedkar allegedly threatened farmers over a land issue in Mulshi tehsil in Pune in 2023.

A Pune Rural police official said a probe would begin to ascertain facts, including if Manorama possessed a licence for the firearm.

The 2023-batch IAS officer is accused of posing as an OBC non-creamy layer candidate in her UPSC candidature. She also claimed she was visually and mentally disabled but refused to take tests to corroborate her claims. It has been alleged that Manorama and her husband Dilip Khedkar are involved in illegal land grabbing in Pune and Ahmednagar districts. The Khedkar family allegedly owns 105 acres of land while Dilip's total asset is worth ₹40 crore. Puja owns several sedans and earns ₹40 lakh annual income through rented properties.

The Khedkar family, which has properties across Maharashtra, had purchased 25 acres of land in Mulshi tehsil. A part of it allegedly encroached upon the land of neighbouring farmers. When the local farmers objected to the Khedkar family's decision to take over the land, Manorama reached the spot with bouncers and threatened the farmers with the pistol, officials said.

"We have taken cognisance of the video that is circulating on social media platforms. Once facts are ascertained, we will start a probe. We will investigate if Manorama Khedkar has a licence for the firearm," a senior Pune Rural police official said.

The video added to the controversies surrounding Puja who was recently transferred from Pune to Washim district following multiple complaints about her unprofessional conduct, unreasonable demand as a trainee IAS officer and her father threatening revenue department staffers.

Soren's job offer letters to 1.5K teachers trigger row

MUKESH RANJAN @ Ranchi

DAYS after being released from jail following the High Court order and taking over as Chief Minister of Jharkhand, Hemant Soren on Friday distributed appointment letters to 1500 Post Graduate Teachers (PGT) teachers which has sparked a controversy in the state. The candidates have been protesting against the merit list alleging huge irregularities in the examination conducted by the agency which has already been blacklisted in the state.

According to the merit list of the successful candidates released by the Commission, it is being alleged that more than 70 per cent of the candidates were declared successful from two examination centres only. Candidates also allege that the candidates whose names have appeared in the merit list were charged ₹18 to 20 lakh to get them through the examination.

Terming it as eyewash, BJP said that lollipops are being handed out to the youth in the name of appointment letters.

BJP spokesperson Pratul Shahdeo alleged that the appointment letter ceremony was organized on Friday only to brighten up the face of the CM. "The programme was organised only to show off. The youth of this state have been duped as appointment letters were distributed amid the ongoing protest," said Shahdeo.

Didi meets Uddhav in Mumbai, says 'game on'

SUDHIR SURYAWANSHI @ Mumbai

WEST Bengal Chief Minister Mamata Banerjee on Friday said the BJP-led NDA government at the Centre is not stable, and may not complete its term. Banerjee met Shiv Sena (UBT) chief Uddhav Thackeray and NCP (SP) president Sharad Pawar.

"This government may not continue. This is not a stable government," she said at a press conference with Thackeray. "Khela has begun, it will go on," Banerjee said when asked to elaborate. She said, "INDIA bloc is very strong. Our stand is very clear, unity in diversity." Banerjee alleged that the BJP misused power during Lok Sabha polls and won several seats with thin margins. "In Mumbai also, BJP did it and its alliance partner candidate won by 48 votes," she added.

On the Centre's move to observe June 25, when Emergency was imposed in 1975, as 'Samvidhaan Hatya Diwas', Banerjee said times associated with Emergency were being seen most during the tenure of PM Narendra Modi.

"We do not support Emergency. They (Indira Gandhi) at least declared it, but in the Modi regime, there is an undeclared emergency," she said.

While taking any such decision, the ruling party has to consult the Opposition, but BJP is still taking unilateral decisions, she said.

UAE names street after doctor hailing from Kerala

DUBAI

A road in the UAE capital of Abu Dhabi has been named after an 84-year-old doctor with Indian roots as a tribute to his significant contributions to the country's health sector.

Matthew grew up in Thumpamon, Pathanamthitta, in Kerala, and graduated with an MBBS in 1965 from Trivandrum Medical College. He moved to the UAE in 1967 at the age of 26 with his wife, Valsa.

The Department of Municipalities and Transport (DMT) has named a road in Abu Dhabi after Dr George Matthew to recognise his contributions as part of its 'Honouring UAE's Visionaries: Commemorative Streets' project, which aims to honour individuals who have greatly contributed to the nation's development.

The road near Sheikh Shakbooth Medical City in Al Mafraq will now be known as George Matthew Street.

He held several key positions, including Medical Director of Al Ain Region in 1972 and Health Authority Consultant in 2001. His contributions significantly advanced healthcare services in the emirate and promoted a modern medical culture in the country.

His commitment to education and professional development has been instrumental in shaping the healthcare landscape of the UAE.

He played a vital role in educating and training healthcare workers, and his dedication earned him the trust and admiration of his colleagues and the community.

Known for his dedication and expertise, Matthew has been a valuable source of medical knowledge for the Al Ain community. In recognition of his service, the UAE granted Dr Matthew and his family citizenship 10 years ago. PTI

New gaffes add to pressure on Biden to drop out

At NATO summit, he refers to Kamala Harris as 'Vice President Trump' and Zelensky as 'Putin'

WASHINGTON

US President Joe Biden defiantly insisted on Thursday that he will run for another term and win, as a series of verbal gaffes while leading a major summit threw a harsh new spotlight on his fitness.

The 81-year-old president sought to show himself in command as he led the NATO summit in Washington two weeks after a disastrous debate performance raised fears among Democrats that he may lose to Donald Trump.

But Biden mistakenly introduced Ukraine's President Volodymyr Zelensky as his Russian foe Vladimir Putin before quickly correcting himself.

"And now I want to hand it over to the president of Ukraine, who has as much courage as he has determination, ladies and gentlemen, President Putin," Biden said as he announced a NATO-Ukraine compact at the summit in Washington.

At a high-stakes evening news conference afterward, Biden mistakenly referred to Kamala Harris as "Vice President" Trump. But he vowed to stay in the race. "I think I'm the most qualified person to run for president. I beat him once, and I will beat him again," Biden said of Trump. Biden, already the oldest person to be elected the first time to the White House, said he was "not in this for my legacy" but to "complete the job."

Biden has faced a steady drumbeat of Democrats calling for him to abandon his 2024 candidacy, fearing that Trump is in a position to beat him.

Biden made clear he supported Harris—who as vice president would take over from him, but is also seen by a growing number of Democrats as a stronger candidate at the top of the ticket. Biden said he would not have picked Kamala Harris if "she was not qualified to be president."

Biden's error on Zelensky's name drew gasps from the room but Zelensky, Ukraine's wartime leader against Russia's 2022 invasion, laughed it off.

The concerns over Biden are also affecting Democratic donors. A number of other key donors have told the largest Biden campaign fund that around $90 million in pledged donations is on hold if he carries on running, the New York Times reported on Friday. AFP

60 bodies found after Israeli ops: Hamas

GAZA STRIP

AROUND 60 bodies were found under the rubble of a Gaza City neighbourhood, officials in the Hamas-run territory said Thursday, after Israel's military declared an end to its operation there.

The upsurge in fighting, bombardment and displacement in the eastern district of Shujaiya came as talks were held in mediator Qatar towards a truce and hostage release deal. US President Joe Biden told reporters that his administration was "making progress" towards a ceasefire agreement as he called for an end to the Israel-Hamas war.

His statement came after Prime Minister Benjamin Netanyahu demanded that Israel retain control of key Gaza territory along the border with Egypt—a condition that conflicts with Hamas's position that Israel must withdraw from all Gaza territory after a ceasefire. Gaza's civil defence agency said around 60 bodies had been found under the rubble in Shujaiya, after some of Gaza City's heaviest combat in months.

Hamas said Israel's operation there had left "more than 300 residential units and more than 100 business destroyed".

Mohammed Nairi, a Shujaiya resident, said he and others returning to the neighbourhood had seen "immense destruction that defies description. All the houses were demolished." Israel's military said on Wednesday it had completed its mission in Shujaiya after two weeks, but bombardments and fighting continued to shake Gaza City.

Witnesses said tanks and troops had moved on to other parts of the city. An AFP correspondent reported air strikes on the Sabra neighbourhood while militants engaged in heavy clashes with Israeli forces in Tel al-Hawa.

Hamas reported 45 air strikes in the Gaza City area, as well as in Gaza's southernmost city of Rafah, where Netanyahu had said the intense phase of the war was nearing its conclusion. Netanyahu's office confirmed that its negotiating team, led by Mossad intelligence chief David Barnea, had returned to Israel following talks with mediators in Doha on Thursday. AFP

NEW PREZ EYES DEBT LEVEL AT 50% OF GDP: FT

Indonesia's new president Prabowo Subian will allow the national debt to increase to 50% of GDP to fund his spending programmes, Financial Times reported. "The idea is to raise the revenue and raise the debt level," Hashim Djojohadikusumo, one of Subianto's close advisors told FT. "I've talked to the World Bank and they think 50 per cent is prudent." As per Indonesian law, the country's debt-to-GDP ratio cannot exceed 60%. "We don't want to raise the debt level without raising revenue," Hashim told the UK business daily. The present debt-to-GDP ratio is 39%

THARMAN ON INDUSTRIAL POLICIES

Singapore President Tharman Shanmugaratnam said Industrial policies such as tax breaks and subsidies to promote specific industries domestically are returning at a rate not seen since the 1960s and 1970s, despite having largely failed then, Tharman noted. Such interventions by governments are being made not because of any powerful new evidence or a cogent reappraisal of what brings about prosperity, but "by way of drift and tit-for-tat actions", he said. Russia planned assassination of German arms maker: Report

WASHINGTON

THE United States foiled a Russian plot earlier this year to assassinate the chief executive of a major German arms maker supplying weaponry to Ukraine, CNN reported on Thursday.

The US cable television network, citing five unidentified US and Western officials, said the United States informed Germany of the Russian government's plan to kill Armin Papperger, the head of Rheinmetall, and he was given protection by German security services. It said the assassination plot was one of a series of Russian plans discovered by US intelligence to kill European defense executives supporting Ukraine's war effort.

CNN said the plot against Papperger was the "most mature" and quoted a high-level German government official as confirming that Germany was warned about the plot by the United States.

Rheinmetall produces 155mm artillery shells and plans to begin manufacturing armored vehicles in Ukraine, according to CNN. The CNN report comes as NATO leaders are holding meetings in Washington to mark the 75th anniversary of the defense bloc.

German Foreign Minister Annalena Baerbock said: "In view of the latest reports on Rheinmetall, this is what we have actually been communicating more and more clearly in recent months.

"Russia is waging a hybrid war of aggression," Baerbock said. "With sabotage, with cyber attacks, with the paralysis of GPS so that Baltic aircraft can no longer land in neighbouring countries.

"We have seen that there have been attacks on people on European territory," the foreign minister said. AFP

152 building collapses since 2005 in Lagos

Building collapses are fairly common in Africa's most populous nation because of lax enforcement of building standards, negligence and use of low-quality materials. At least 45 people were killed in 2021 when a high-rise building under construction collapsed in the upscale Ikoyi district in Nigeria's economic capital Lagos. Ten people were killed when a three-storey building collapsed in the Ebute-Metta area of Lagos the year after. Since 2005, at least 152 buildings have collapsed in Lagos, according to a South African university researcher investigating construction disasters. Bad workmanship, low-quality materials and corruption to bypass official oversight are often blamed for disasters. It was not immediately clear what caused Friday's collapse but residents said it came after three days of heavy rains in Plateau

65 missing as buses swept away by Nepal landslide

KATHMANDU

AT least seven Indian nationals are among over 60 people who are believed to be missing after two buses were swept away by a landslide and pushed into a swollen river in Nepal early Friday, officials said.

The two buses that were carrying 65 passengers went missing in the Trishuli River in the landslides at Simaltal area along the Narayanghat-Mugling road in Chitwan district, Nepal's myRepublica news portal reported quoting officials.

Chief District Officer of Chitwan, Indradev Yadav, confirmed the incident.

According to Yadav, the Kathmandu-bound Angel bus and Ganpati Deluxe, en route to Gaur from the Capital, met with the accident at around 3.30 am on Friday. Twenty-four people were onboard the bus travelling to Kathmandu and 41 on the bus travelling to Gaur, police said. Three of the passengers on the Ganpati Deluxe bus managed to escape after jumping out of the vehicle, The Kathmandu Post reported.

Details have been received of 21 passengers travelling from Birgunj to Kathmandu on Angel Deluxe. According to the latest information, police have said that there were seven Indian nationals among the passengers on the bus. The missing Indian nationals are identified as Santosh Thakur, Surendra Sah, Adit Miyaan, Sunil, Shahnawaj Alam, and Ansari. Another person has not been identified. Yadav said that the rescue workers have started clearing the landslide debris.

Expressing grief over the disappearance of the two buses in the Trishuli River, Prime Minister Pushpa Kamal Dahal 'Prachanda' has issued directives for immediate search and rescue operations. PTI

Teenager arrested over attack on gurdwara in UK

LONDON: A 17-year-old boy remains in custody after two women were injured in a suspected religiously aggravated incident involving a 'bladed weapon' at a gurdwara in Kent, south-east England, local police said on Friday. Kent Police said its officers were called to the Sri Guru Nanak Darbar Gurdwara on Thursday evening to investigate reports that a male had entered the place of worship and attempted to assault members of the gathering. The gurdwara, among the largest in Europe, said that 'Guru Granth Sahib Ji' was not present in the Darbar Hall at the time of the incident. "It was reported that a male had entered the location and attempted to assault those in attendance whilst armed with a bladed weapon. Nobody was seriously injured during the incident but two women required medical attention for cuts and bruises," Kent Police said in a statement. The officers arrested the teenage boy on suspicion of attempted murder and a religiously aggravated public order offence and also recovered the bladed weapon from the scene. PTI

HCL Q1 profit rises 20% to ₹4,257 cr

Q1 usually soft quarter, CEO says confident of sequential growth in financial services after Q2

UMA KANNAN @ Bengaluru

FIRST QUARTER FY25 EARNINGS

- Net Income at ₹4,257 crore, an increase of 20.4% YoY
- Revenue of ₹28,057 crore, an increase of 6.7% YoY
- EBIT at ₹4,795 crore, an increase of 7.5% YoY
- New deal wins at $1,960 mn
- Dividend of ₹12 per share
- Total headcount at 219,401
- LTM Attrition at 12.8%

HCLTECH'S June quarter performance beat Street estimates as the IT services firm posted a 20% year-on-year increase in its consolidated net profit at ₹4,257 crore compared to ₹3,534 crore in the year-ago period.

Its revenue from operations in the first quarter was ₹28,057 crore, up 6.7% compared to ₹26,296 crore in the same quarter last year.

The company retained its constant currency (CC) revenue growth guidance between 3% and 5% in FY25 and EBIT margin is expected to be between 18% and 19%.

Briefing the media on outlook for Q2, C Vijayakumar, CEO & MD, HCLTech said, "In the second quarter, we expect to grow in all geographies and verticals except financial services. Even in manufacturing we expect to recover in Q2."

Usually Q1 is a seasonally soft quarter for the company.

He added that Q2 will be a soft quarter for financial services after that we are confident of sequential growth in financial services. Its financial services was down 1.3% in Q1 and manufacturing grew 3.5% YoY. The CEO added that discretionary spending will be the same as last year and we continue to spend on Gen AI and other emerging technologies. "We clocked in $2 billion TCV (total contract value) of new business bookings," he said.

The CEO said there are over 200 Gen AI PoCs (proof of concepts) and several of them are going into production.

Roshni Nadar Malhotra, Chairperson, HCLTech, said, "With our future-ready portfolio, we are well placed to tap emerging opportunities led by GenAI." Prateek Aggarwal, CFO said, the company delivered an INR revenue growth of 6.7% YoY, healthy given the global environment. EBIT margins came in at 17.1%, steady on YoY basis.

The company's headcount was reduced by 8,080 in the first quarter and it lost around 7,398 employees due to divestiture. It added 1,078 freshers in the June quarter and is likely to hire 10,000 freshers in FY25. The company's chief people officer Ramachandran Sundararajan said the headcount is in line with what we have planned for and attrition level was at 12.8%, and we expect it to continue at similar levels.

The company has announced many GenAI deal wins including a leading US-based financial services company selected HCLTech to build a GenAI platform with robust AI governance and LLM Ops. The company also announced that an APAC-based financial services major selected the company to help accelerate its enterprise-wide data and AI transformation.

Axis, HDFC Bank customers to face outage on Saturday

BENN KOCHUVEEDAN @ Mumbai

MORE than 140 million customers of HDFC Bank and Axis Bank will face service interruptions on Saturday as the former is upgrading its systems and the latter is completing the transition of Citi India business. Both the banks have been notifying their customers about the interruption in services since last week.

HDFC Bank, the largest private sector lender with over 93.2 million customers, has said it will be undertaking a system upgrade on July 13 to migrate its core banking system to a new engineered platform so as to offer enhanced customer experience. During the 13.5-hour upgrade beginning from Friday midnight, HDFC Bank customers will only be able to use their debit cards and credit cards on swipe machines and for online transactions, that too for a restricted amount. They can also withdraw a restricted amount of cash from any ATM using their debit cards.

The ubiquitous UPI services will be the worst affected and will not be available for customers from 030 hrs. 0345 hrs. and from 0930 hrs. to 1245 hrs. on Saturday. For merchants, while they can continue to receive payments via cards, but updates to the account for previous day's payments will be available only after the upgrade, the HDFC Bank said.

HDFC to upgrade system

HDFC Bank, largest private sector lender with 93.2 mn customers, has said it will undertake a system upgrade on July 13 to migrate its core banking system to a new engineered platform so as to offer enhanced customer experience

On the other hand, Axis Bank, which is the third largest private sector lender with around 48 million customers, has said certain services on its platform will be unavailable from 1000 hrs. on Friday 12 through 0900 hrs. on Sunday.

The affected services include internet banking and mobile banking app, fund transfers accounts through NEFT, RTGS and IMPS, credit card transactions, mutual fund subscriptions, and loan services throughout Saturday and Sunday. The bank has also well advance informed its customers about these outages.

The bank completed the rest 11,600 core acquisition of Citi India's consumer business and non-banking financial company (NBFC) consumer business on March 1, 2023, and has said the integration would be completed in 18 months. The deal was announced in March 2023. The sale excludes Citi's institutional client businesses here. Axis Bank is the fourth-largest issuer of credit cards with a total base close to 9 million cards and the Citi deal would have added about 2.5 million credit cards.

TELECOM

Scindia to meet advisory groups next week

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

TELECOM Minister Jyotiraditya Scindia is scheduled to meet six advisory groups next week to seek feedback on the telecommunications industry.

The meetings will be attended by some of the prominent figures including Bharti Airtel CEO Gopal Vittal, Apple India MD for Regulations Virat Bhatia, Jio's Ravi Gandhi, HCL cofounder Ajai Chowdhry , among others. According to a Department of Telecommunications (DoT) official, on July 15, the minister will engage with the Satellite Communication Ecosystem and Telecom Electronic Ecosystem groups.

On July 16, he will meet with telecom sector OEMs (original equipment manufacturers), internet service providers, infra providers, telecom service providers, academicians, and R&D experts in the telecommunications sector, and will hold discussions with McKinsey.

The goal of these meetings is to gather industry insights on current challenges and identify opportunities for accelerating sector growth. DoT has established six committees aimed at enhancing the telecommunications sector. Panel members are likely to share their perspectives, goals, and targets, with anticipated discussions covering issues such as the Universal Service Obligation Fund (USOF) levy, licence fee reductions, zero customs duty, and strategies for boosting telecom equipment exports.

JP Morgan index inclusion: Forex kitty hits $657 bn

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ Mumbai

THE inclusion of government bonds in the JP Morgan global bond index from June 28, which though did not have the desired impact on the bond yields, did impact the forex kitty, which swelled by $5.16 billion to hit a new life-time high of $657.155 billion for the week to July 5.

According to the latest weekly data on the forex reserves, a key defence for an economy to face external winds, rose to new record to touch $657.155 billion for the week to July 5. The same had fallen in the previous two consecutive weeks, dropping $1.713 billion to $651.997 billion for the week to June 28.

The previous high for the reserves was $655.817 billion for the week to June 7 this year.

Meanwhile, despite the positive dataprints from overseas, the rupee ended weaker, pressured by state-run banks' dollar demand at 83.56 to a dollar, down 4 paise from the previous session.

The rupee shuffled in a tight band in the first half of the session, bids from state-run banks pushed it lower towards the latter half, according to traders and the market is a more pressure on the unit next week as the US inflation printed in lower than expected, as this will further strengthen the greenback.

Meanwhile, the benchmark 10-years bond yields inched up marginally by 0.06 percent to close at 6.986 from the previous. This is first time in weeks that the yield has fallen below the 7 percent level.

For the week to July 5, foreign currency assets, a major component of the reserves, increased by $4.228 billion to $577.11 billion, according to the RBI data released Friday.

CHINA

EXPORTS GROW 8.6% IN JUNE

China's exports beat forecasts in June, while imports grew less than expected. Exports grew 8.6% from the same time last year to hit $307.8 billion, according to data released by Chinese customs on Friday, beating estimates of about 7.4% to 8% growth. The country's imports, however, declined 2.3% from a year earlier to $208.8 billion. The strong exports for June led to its trade surplus widening to $99 billion, a rise from $82.6 billion in May. Exports growth comes as China faces escalated trade tensions with the U.S. and Europe. The U.S. and Europe have ramped up tariffs on Chinese-made electric cars. Import volumes will likely rebound soon as the uptick in recent government bonds issued will likely result in increased infrastructure spending, thereby lifting demand for industrial commodities, Huang wrote. The 10 nations of the Association of Southeast Asian Nations remained the largest destination for Chinese products, with exports to ASEAN growing 10.7% year-on-year in the January to June period.

JAPAN

WHOLESALE INFLATION UP AS YEN RAISES IMPORT COSTS

Wholesale inflation in Japan accelerated in June as the decline in yen pushed the cost of raw material imports, according to the official data. It kept alive market expectations for a near-term interest rate hike by the central bank. Rising global commodity costs and a phase-out of gasoline and fuel subsidies pushed up wholesale prices, a sign of heightening inflationary pressure. The data will be among factors the Bank of Japan (BOJ) will scrutinise at its next policy meeting on July 30-31, when the board will release fresh growth forecasts and debate whether to raise interest rates from current near-zero levels. The corporate goods price index (CGPI), which measures the price companies charge each other for their goods and services, rose 2.9 per cent in June from a year earlier, BOJ data showed, matching a median market forecast. It accelerated from the previous month's revised 2.6 per cent gain and rose at the fastest year-on-year pace since August 2023. The index, at 122.7, hit a record high for the seventh straight month.

SINGAPORE

ECONOMY GROWS ON MANUFACTURING SECTOR REBOUND

The economy of Singapore grew 2.9% in the second quarter of 2024 from a year earlier, better than economists expected, government data showed on Friday. The better-than-expected figure and an upwards revision to first quarter data to 3.0 per cent led economists to upgrade their gross domestic product (GDP) forecasts for the year. Singapore's trade-dependent economy often functions as a bellwether for the economic health of Asia that belies its size. On a quarter-on-quarter seasonally adjusted basis, GDP expanded 0.4 per cent in the second quarter, the data from the Ministry of Trade and Industry showed. The manufacturing sector rose by 0.5% in the second quarter, a reversal from the 1.7% contraction in the previous quarter. The advance second-quarter GDP data comes after the Asian financial hub registered its fastest growth in 18 months in the first quarter. In May, the trade ministry maintained its economic growth forecast for 2024 at 1% to 3%. Singapore's GDP increased 1.1% last year, slowing from 3.8% in 2022.

India's SDG score improves from 66 to 71 in FY24, inequalities increase

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

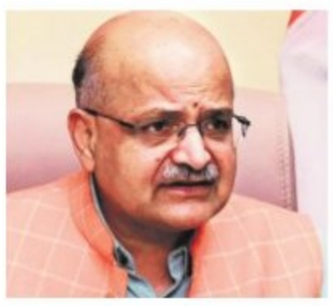
INDIA'S sustainable development goal (SDG) score improved from 66 in 2020-21 to 71 in 2023-24. The fourth edition of the SDG India Index 2023-24 was released on Friday by chief executive officer of NITI Aayog BVR Subrahmanyam.

The Niti Aayog CEO attributed improvement in India's SDG score to a number of policy measures taken by the government. He highlighted among others 10 crore LPG connections under PM Ujjwala Yojana, over 30 crore beneficiaries under Ayushman Bharat-Pradhan Mantri Jan Arogya Yojana and coverage of over 80 crore people under the National Food Security Act (NFSA).

India improved its scores on all parameters barring one – reduced inequalities, where its score fell from 67 in 2020-21 to 65 in 2023-24. The fall in inequality score was attributed to inclusion of Gini Coefficient, which determines a nation's level of income inequality. "We want this index to be world class and very stable. So we included the Gini Coefficient. So the introduction of the Gini Coefficient led to the fall in inequality score," explained BVR Subrahmanyam of Niti Aayog.

He, however, pointed out that the parameter 'Reduced Inequality' is not only about income inequality, and that it also measures things like women participation in the labour force, crime against SC/ST.

The sharpest improvement was shown in no Poverty parameter, where the score improved from 60 in 2020-21 to 72 in 2023-24. As per Niti Aayog, multidimensional poverty for 2022-23 has dropped from 24.8% in 2015-16 to 11.28% in 2022-23. Nearly 99.7% persons demanding employment under MNREGS were offered employment in 2023-24.



Niti Aayog CEO attributes policy measures for this

Niti Aayog chief executive officer BVR Subrahmanyam attributed improvement in SDG score to policy measures taken by the government. He said among others, 10 crore LPG connections under PM Ujjwala Yojana, 30 crore beneficiaries under AB-PMJAY

Marut aims to create 500 drone entrepreneurs

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ Chennai

IN a bid to expand its dealer network in Tamil Nadu and educate farmers by training them in drone operation, Marut Drones is aiming to create 500 drone entrepreneurs by 2024-end.

With approval from the Directorate General of Civil Aviation (DGCA) for manufacturing small and medium drones, this initiative is expected to attract youngsters to pursue agriculture as a profession and become drone operators. The company claims by using drones for spraying fertilisers, farmers can potentially earn up to ₹50,000-₹60,000 per month.

Marut Drones is collaborating with Annamalai University to provide drone training. Adoption of drone technology among small-scale farmers will not only help in precision-spraying, but also reduce water and fertiliser application by 70%.

Number of resolutions under IBC to go up every year: IBBI chairman

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

AMID criticism over delayed resolution of cases under the Insolvency and Bankruptcy Code (IBC), the chairman of insolvency regulator pointed out on Friday that 270 cases defaults were resolved in 2023-24 against the average 125 in the previous years. Ravi Mital, the chairman of Insolvency and Bankruptcy Board of India (IBBI), said that the number of resolution per year would continue to grow.

Mital was speaking at an event organized by the Institute of Chartered Accountants of India (ICAI). He said that it is crucial for project completion to be timely and efficient. "Faster resolutions can address many concerns," said Mital.

He said that India has outperformed many countries in insolvency resolution, and Indian resolution professionals should extend their expertise globally.

"IBC not only protects creditors' interests but also promotes economic growth in the nation, which is reflected by NPAs being at the lowest levels," he added.

The IBC has successfully settled around 28,000 cases, and around Rs 3.4 lakh crore debt has been settled. Mital, however, pointed out the need for improvement in the quality of information Memorandum. He also called for more disclosures in the Information Memorandum, which is a document released by the insolvency professional at the time of inviting Expression of Interest from interest resolution applicants.

The insolvency regulator said with little more effort from resolution professional, the recovery rate under IBC could increase from 32% to 40%. During the inaugural session Justice Ashok Bhushan, Chairperson, National Company Law Appellate Tribunal (NCLT), said that The landscape of insolvency and bankruptcy has evolved significantly, with the Insolvency and Bankruptcy Code (IBC) becoming pivotal in addressing corporate distress.

He also praised the ICAI is playing a key role in understanding the intricacies and promoting best practices in this emerging landscape.

Coal India to ease e-auction norms

NEW DELHI: Coal India (CIL) on Friday said it has taken steps to ease e-auction norms like lowering the earnest money and enhancing quantity of the dry fuel on offer. It is planning to tweak its auction and allocation methodology, as it aims to encourage more participation. CIL has asked its arms barring Northern Coalfields to spike up offer quantity under e-auction to 40% of total production. ENS

Most tech professionals feel unfairly compensated, cite pay disparities

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ Bengaluru

MORE than 60% of tech professionals feel unfairly compensated, and they cite substantial pay disparities that underscore an urgent need for action. The 2024 Compensation and Benefits Survey by ANSR and Talent500 reveals that 65% of respondents perceive a significant gender-based pay gap, with 56% noting disparities of at least 25% across different roles.

Nearly 70% emphasise the critical role of Restricted Stock Units (RSUs) in fostering long-term commitment through equity-based incentives.

The survey also reveals that beyond competitive salaries, personalised benefits and clear career development opportunities have become the key drivers of employee satisfaction and retention.

The report highlights a major shift in priorities among tech talent, with 61% of respondents emphasising the importance of customisable health benefits programmes. 77% of them value hybrid work arrangements, urging companies to optimise benefits packages for hybrid work.

"In today's dynamic talent market, flexibility has become a cornerstone of employee satisfaction and organisational success," said Vikram Ahuja, Co-Founder ANSR and CEO Talent500. "It's about crafting a holistic employee experience – one that cultivates purpose, growth, and well-being," he added. Tech professionals highlight the critical importance of Learning and Development (L&D) programs. Over 90% of respondents view career pathing and L&D initiatives as indispensable factors when assessing potential employers. Moreover, 81% of employees express a preference for mentorship programs and stretch roles, indicating a strong interest in career advancement and leadership opportunities.

2028 Oly to include multiple events in Carson, Long Beach

The 2028 Los Angeles Olympics on Friday announced more venue assignments, with the cities of Carson and Long Beach reprising their roles from previous games held in the region. Carson will host track cycling at the velodrome, field hockey in the adjacent fields, rugby sevens in the stadium and tennis at Dignity Health Sports Park.

La Roja janeman: Rodri central figure

With the reputation of being the best midfielder, Spaniard has a chance to add another feather to his crown

SWAROOP SWAMINATHAN
@Chennai

REAL Madrid win titles because that's what they do. Barcelona can go to the extent of defaulting on their payments but players will move metaphorical mountains to go there. It's due to their history and heritage. Manchester City are a winning machine... you get the drift, right? These are some of football's unshakeable maxims.

Similarly, there is another of the sport's truisms. Rodrigo Hernandez Cascante, more widely known as Rodri, doesn't lose games. While it may be a quirky statistic and doesn't tell a lot if you just take that number in isolation, zoom out a bit and you will immediately realise the value of the world's best defensive mid-fielder. His La Roja coach, Luis de la Fuente, calls him a 'computer' for his innate ability to calculate, restore order from chaos and bring a position of calm. "It's normal that after the goal, an own goal, there were some nervous minutes," De la Fuente had said after their 4-1 win over Georgia in the Round of 16. "But we managed to wrestle control back and the players read the game brilliantly. We were calm at half-time, there was no anxiety and the players knew what was needed. "And then we have Rodri, who is a computer who makes everyone else play. He managed all the emotions and all the moments perfectly, which is a big help for everyone."

Pep Guardiola, who took him from Atletico before sculpting him into the player he's today, calls him as 'the best' midfielder right now. "It's difficult to understand how we could have done what we have done in recent years without him," the Spaniard had remarked about his compatriot earlier this year. Actually, it's not that hard to understand. Without Rodri, City wouldn't have racked up all those titles over the last two years. There was a point last season when the club hit a substantial pocket of air turbulence from the end of September to the first week of December. Losing three league games in two-and-a-half games doesn't really qualify for a crisis but all of those City losses came without Rodri in the starting line-up. The manner of defeats were limp, reinforcing his importance to the side. In that sense, he's a bellwether player for both club and country. If Rodri does well, Spain and Man City know they have a floor and a half constructed ceiling. Without him, the foundations can be very rickety. Why?

Spain coach Luis de la Fuente calls Rodrigo Hernandez (L) a 'computer' for his innate ability to calculate | AFP

Most of what they do goes through him. He's elite in so many ways. Recycle possession? Tick. Take the ball from the centre-backs and move the play forward? Tick. Press resistant? Tick. Leadership? Tick. If Nico Williams and Lacine Yamal are Spain's twin Ferraris, Rodri is the one who makes it function.

But he carries with him the age-old curse of being a defensive midfielder, folks who do their best work in the shadows. They don't score as many goals, there is not many goal-saving, last ditch tackles and Hollywood-style quarterback passes are few and far between. It's why the 28-year-old wouldn't be in a conversation when the tournament's best player is about to be selected. If you want to go purely by merit (and not hype), Rodri will be in the reckoning.

Because the 'best players' are largely selected from a subset of players who produce something more tangible (goals and assists, for instance) than the quiet stuff, he was actually overlooked when the Premier League drew up its list of nominees for the player of the season in May 2024. Guardiola wasn't going to have it. "What is important is he knows what we think about the importance and how magnificent, extraordinary player he is," the City coach had said. "He shouldn't be worried at all about that."

The person who ended up winning that particular award in May? Rodri's club-mate and somebody who will be across the aisle at kick-off, Phil Foden.

Since the start of 2023, the Spaniard has won every competition he has featured in. Premier League, Champions League, Club World Cup, FA Cup, Nations League and the Supercup. He has the chance to add the European Championship to this collection in a little over 44 hours.

With a firing Rodriguez, Colombia aim for the sky in Copa title clash

ERIC NUNEZ

LUIS Diaz was unable to control his excitement — and tears — when talking about James Rodriguez, the key player in Colombia's journey to the Copa America final against Argentina on Sunday. "From the moment I arrived at the national team, I let him know that he has always been my idol," Liverpool winger Diaz said. "I grew up watching him."

Such is the admiration that the midfielder, who turned 33 on Friday, attracts within the Colombian camp. The 27-year-old Diaz was a teenager when James proved a sensation at the 2014 World Cup in Brazil, where he won the Golden Boot as the tournament's top scorer and moved from Monaco to Real Madrid.

But for this Copa America, little was expected of James. He arrived in the United States after a poor season at Brazilian club Sao Paulo, where he ended up being an afterthought and appeared to be on his way out of there. Colombia's aspirations of a second Copa title were placed on the shoulders of Diaz, along with Jefferson Lerma and Daniel Munoz, another couple of players in England's top flight.

Few expected that James, despite his prodigious left foot and craftsmanship on the field, would once again be the stepping stone for Colombia in a major tournament after disappointing stints with Real, Bayern Munich and Everton, among other European clubs. But Colombia coach Nestor Lorenzo put his faith in him and James has rewarded that by reemerging as, arguably, the best player at the tournament, establishing himself as the main focus of a team that will play defending champion Argentina at Miami Gardens, Florida, in the championship match.

It will be Colombia's first Copa final since winning the title as host in 2001. "I have been here for almost 13 years, wanting this very much," said James. James has a goal (a penalty) and six assists at this edition of the Copa America. The sixth — in the 1-0 victory against Uruguay in the semifinals — helped him surpass Lionel Messi's record (5 in 2021) for the most goal assists in a single edition since records began to be kept in 2011.

With his superlative performances in the past few weeks, a question has again been raised: What makes James shine so much when wearing the yellow jersey of Colombia? Brazil coach Dorival Júnior, who managed him in Sao Paulo, said that the transformation is because James feels comfortable in a known environment. — AP

Paris Olympics: Sindhu, Prannoy get easy groups

AGENCIES @ Kuala Lumpur

TWO-TIME Olympic medallist PV Sindhu and HS Prannoy were on Friday handed easy groups for the Paris Games beginning on July 26. Sindhu, who won a silver at the Rio Games and followed that with a bronze in Tokyo, has been seeded 10th. She has been drawn in Group M of the women's singles alongside Kristin Kuuba of Estonia (WR 75) and Maldives' Fathimath Nabaaha Abdul Razzaq (WR 111). While Sindhu has a relatively easy group, she could face China's sixth seed He Bing Jiao in the round of 16. If she gets past Jiao, Sindhu will likely face Olympic champion Chen Yu Fei of China in the quarterfinals.

Meanwhile, Prannoy will have to go past Vietnam's Le Duc Phat (WR 70) and Fabian Roth (WR 82) of Germany in Group K of the men's singles. The second Indian in the men's singles, Lakshya Sen has been drawn in Group L. Lakshya has Jonatan Christie of Indonesia in his group. If both Prannoy and Lakshya can top their group, they will meet each other in the round of 16.

The Indian men's pair of Satwiksairaj Rankireddy and Chirag Shetty has been seeded third in men's doubles event. However, the men's doubles draw for the Olympics was postponed due to a Court of Arbitration of Sport hearing over the number of pairs in the draw.

DEFENDING champion Carlos Alcaraz beat Daniil Medvedev 6-7 (1), 6-3, 6-4, 6-4 on Friday to return to the Wimbledon final as he seeks his fourth Grand Slam title at age 21. He will face seven-time Wimbledon winner Novak Djokovic, who beat Lorenzo Musetti 6-4, 7 (7)-6 (2), 6-4 late in the evening.

Earlier, Alcaraz transformed back into the energetic, attacking, crowd-pleasing force who already was the first teenager to be No. 1 in the ATP rankings and is the youngest man to have won a major trophy on three surfaces: grass, clay and hard courts.

Now the Spaniard is one victory away from joining Boris Becker and Bjorn Borg as the only men in the Open era, which began in 1968, with multiple championships at the All England Club before turning 22. Alcaraz also triumphed at the US Open in 2022 and the French Open last month.

He is 3-0 in major finals so far and will go up against 24-time major champion Novak Djokovic or Lorenzo Mussetti on Sunday. That duo was scheduled to meet in the second semifinal ' the 49th appearance at that stage of a Grand Slam tournament for Djokovic, and the first for Musetti.

A year ago at Wimbledon, Alcaraz eliminated 2021 U.S. Open champion Medvedev in straight sets in the semifinals before defeating Djokovic in five sets in the final.

This time, on a cloudy afternoon at Centre Court, the No. 3-seeded Alcaraz went through some ups and downs against No. 5 Medvedev, a 28-year-old from Russia who was trying to get to the seventh Slam title match of his career.

Medvedev grabbed an early 5-2 lead, then got into trouble with his play and his temper.

Alcaraz broke to get within 5-4 with a drop shot that chair umpire Eva Asderaki ruled ' correctly, according to TV replays ' bounced twice before Medvedev got his racket on the ball. He appeared to curse afterward, and Asderaki issued a warning to Medvedev for unsportsmanlike conduct.

FAREWELL

England's greatest ever fast bowler, says Gillespie as Anderson bids adieu

GOMESH S @ Chennai

BEN STOKES is on the edge of the Lord's balcony, egging on James Anderson. And so are the thousands of fans at the iconic venue. It had been the norm for the better part of the last two decades, but Friday was different.

They were not cheering for Anderson to run in and deliver a perfect outswinger there to take the outside edge of the batter at the other end. That part of his life is done and dusted. Here, Anderson walked out with a full glass of Guinness as the fans stood on the outfield, singing 'Jimmy, Jimmy, Jimmy, Jimmy Anderson'. He chugged it in one go for one last time in an England shirt before raising the glass. After that, he walked back into the dressing room.

A sun had set. A 21-year-old long career had come to an end.

For those mortals on the outfield looking on as Anderson exited the balcony, it was not just about 188 Tests, 704 wickets and the 40,000 odd legal deliveries he had bowled for England in whites. It was so much more. A celebration of someone who had been an integral part of their life in this century.

Anderson means different things to different generations. For those born in the 90s, he was the one who kept them glued to the televisions, brought them to the grounds. He was the one they emulated on a cloudy weekend in their backyard.

For Rachael Wong, mother of England pacer Issy Wong, he was the source to learn about the game her daughter had grown fond of. "Thank You Jimmy - I have never known cricket without you. The enjoyment has been learning this game & seeing you do your thing, your skill, your fire," she posted on X, formerly known as Twitter, before his last Test.

Above all, Anderson was the one unifying figure in England's rollercoaster history throughout the 21st century. And with some very valid reasons. Most wickets by a fast bowler in Test history, second-most number of matches (only Sachin Tendulkar has more with 200), the accolades go on. But it is not the numbers that make Anderson an all-time great. It plays its due part, but Anderson is about longevity. For a seamer to play at the highest level for 21 years is unheard of in the last 60 years. To keep up with the demands of the modern day game where the play moves much faster. Couple that with the schedule getting more chaotic, it takes an incredible amount of physical and mental fortitude.

40037 Balls bowled by Anderson in Test cricket. Only pacer and fourth overall in history behind Muthiah Muralitharan (44039), Anil Kumble (40850) and Shane Warne (40705).

704 Most Test wickets by a pacer, third overall with Muralitharan (800) and Warne ahead (709).

"It is huge," says former Australian pacer Jason Gillespie. "James needs to take a lot of credit for not only physically but mentally being able to continually churn out. You hear a lot of players who get to a point in time where they just go 'You know what? I've had enough. I don't want to do this anymore.' It's a testament to his mental strength."

As Anderson finishes five wickets shy of Shane Warne, Gillespie explains why he was able to sustain what he did for so long. "I'm not sure Anderson would have been too concerned about passing Warne. I genuinely think he just loved playing cricket and wanted to play for as long as he possibly could. Just the genuine love of the game. I think the competitive spirit that Anderson had that's been his motivation all along. Playing cricket for his country, winning games of cricket for England and just just getting in the contest and being a competitive cricketer."

While Anderson did his part, there are other factors as well that enabled him to push as long as he could. Stuart Broad pushed and brought the best out of him at the other end and England Cricket Board and the selectors protected him to get the most of him in one format and rightly so.

Anderson, while signing off, might have told the broadcasters that he would like to be remembered as a 'decent' cricketer. History, however, will be a lot more kinder to him.

Gillespie didn't think for a second to say, "England's greatest ever fast bowler," before adding, "There's no doubt about that. It is plain and simple. Him and Broad. And then you probably throw in Fred Trueman and Bob Willis. They're probably the best four fast bowlers that have ever played the game for England. And, Anderson is probably at the top of that pile. His legacy will last for a long, long time. It's hard to see how someone is going to surpass his tally."

Indeed, Jersey No. 9. Jimmy Anderson. More than just a 'decent' cricketer. The greatest fast bowler England have ever produced. Brief scores: West Indies 121 & 136 in 47 ovs (Anderson 3/32, Atkinson 5/61) lost to England 371 (Crawley 76, Pope 57, Root 68, Brook 50, Smith 70; Seales 4/77).

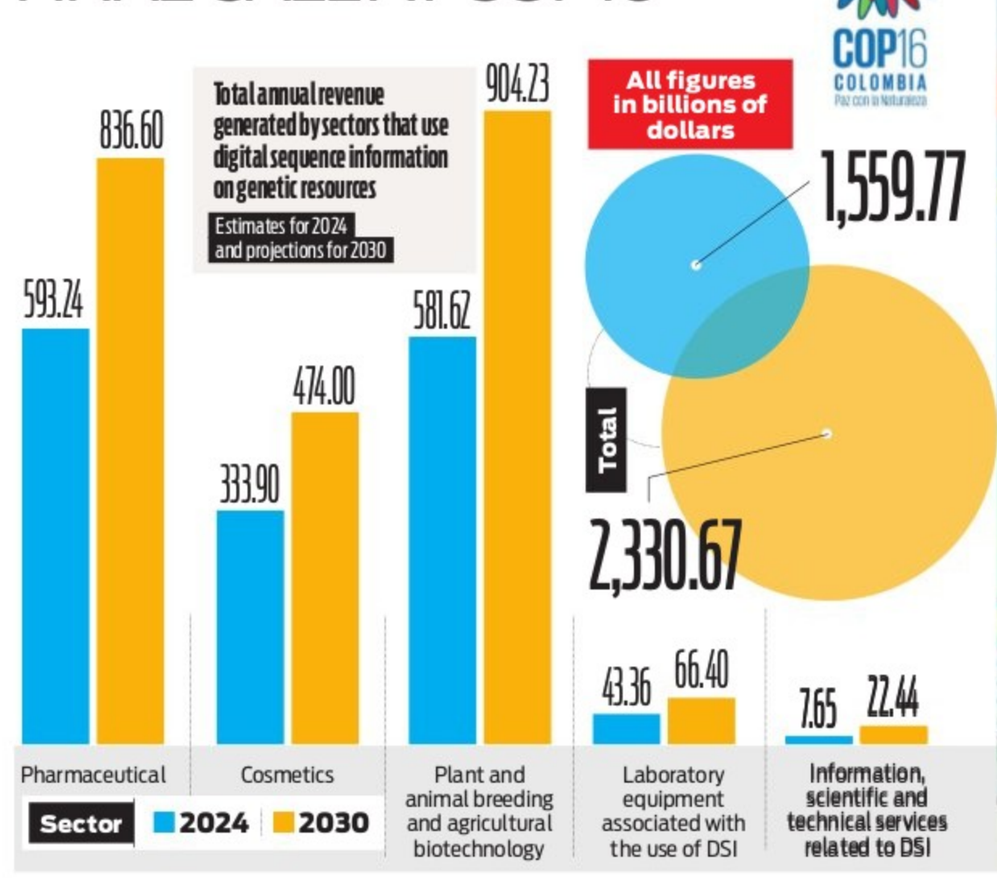
> Until now, users of information on genetic resources have shared little of the profits generated from their use
>
> – David Cooper, Acting Executive Secretary, CBD

Globally, total revenue generated by sectors that consume Digital Sequence Information on genetic resources is estimated to be $1,560 billion in 2024. It is likely to touch $2,331 billion by 2030

PRICE TAG COMING FOR USING DIGITAL GENETIC RESOURCES. FINAL CALL AT COP16



POTENTIAL TRIGGER POINTS FOR CONTRIBUTIONS IDENTIFIED BY THE CO-CHAIRS

- When a product developed through the use of DSI is placed on the market, users would be expected to contribute
- When revenue is generated in a sector highly dependent on the use of DSI, companies would be expected to contribute a proportion of their total revenue generated

The CBD Parties' criteria for DSI benefit sharing agreed to in 2022

- Efficient, feasible, and practical, without undue complexity or burden
- Monetary and non-monetary benefits outweigh associated costs
- Effective, fair and equitable benefit sharing
- Clear legal frameworks for both providers and users of DSI
- No impediment posed to scientific research and innovation, and support principles of open access to scientific data where appropriate
- Aligns with existing international agreements and conventions, and complements and reinforces related instruments
- Respects and upholds the rights of indigenous peoples and local communities, especially regarding traditional knowledge associated with genetic resources

CONCERNS TO BE ADDRESSED

1. Potential negative impacts on open access to data, research and innovation
2. The costs and administrative complexities of managing funds
3. Governance of the mechanism, the global fund, and related data
4. The role of science in non-monetary benefit-sharing

S V KRISHNA CHAITANYA @Chennai

IN 2022, an important discussion to establish a new multilateral mechanism, including creating a global fund, was initiated by the Conference of the Parties (COP) to the Convention on Biological Diversity. The aim was to address the longstanding issue of inequitable benefit-sharing from genetic resources, particularly focusing on Digital Sequence Information (DSI) derived from plants, animals and microbes.

An ad hoc open-ended working group was formed for further development and commissioning of a study to analyse and model the extent to which a multilateral mechanism can induce benefit sharing from the use of DSI on genetic resources. It was also tasked to make recommendations to the COP16, to be held in Cali, Colombia later this year.

After two years of negotiations and consultations, the United Nations has published the documents, including a synthesis report containing a draft recommendation, which will be placed before nations when they meet in Montreal six weeks from now in August for final negotiations in the DSI intergovernmental negotiating group before the the matter comes up for decision at the UN biodiversity conference (COP16) in October in Colombia.

The UN documents, reviewed by TNIE, reveal that the global total revenue generated by sectors that use DSI on genetic resources is estimated to be $1,560 billion in 2024 and is likely to touch $2,331 billion by 2030.

DSI is a digital version of the DNA of plants, animals and microbes (such as bacteria). Scientists identify genes to help create or improve medicines, skincare products, foods and nutritional supplements, feed for animals, bioplastics, and textiles, among other products. Once a useful gene is found, scientists can create a version in the lab and insert it into microbes like bacteria or yeast, which then act like tiny factories, using the new genetic instructions to produce the desired compounds.

Reflecting on the study, the Co-Chairs of the negotiations, Mphatso Kalemba of Malawi and William Lockhart of the UK note the that sectors that depend most on DSI generate "one to a few trillion dollars annually" and even 0.1% of $1 trillion would yield $1 billion for the global fund; 1% would amount to $10 billion. It is important to take into account the rights of indigenous people and local communities, including with respect to the traditional knowledge associated with genetic resources that they hold. So, the envisioned uses of the funds, both monetary and non-monetary benefits arising from the use of DSI on genetic resources, should include supporting the conservation and sustainable use of nature, experts feel.

WHO SHOULD PAY

Central to the proposed multilateral mechanism is a tiered approach to contributions, targeting large multinational corporations that derive significant revenue from DSI-dependent products. It proposes that these companies contribute a proportionate share of their earnings to the global fund. This approach, while ambitious, aims to strike a balance between encouraging participation and avoiding undue economic burdens that could stifle innovation or inflate consumer prices.

The synthesis report says, "While all producers of products developed through the use of DSI or all companies operating in sectors that are highly dependent on DSI would be encouraged to contribute, the main focus would be on large and transnational producers or companies.... The scale of the contributions to the fund should take into account the overall intended scale of the fund, the number of contributors, the degree to which revenue generated is dependent on the use of DSI, and the potential impact of the contribution on business activity and consumers." The note adds that contributions should be "proportionate and reasonable, in the sense that businesses are not burdened with unsustainable costs, and that additional costs are not so significant that they are passed through to consumers in a way that might generate new inflationary pressures."

David Cooper, Acting Executive Secretary of the CBD, said: "Until now, users of information on genetic resources have shared little of the profits generated from their use. We have faith that the goodwill and positive and constructive spirit of compromise Parties have shown to date on this issue will continue through the negotiations in Montreal and Cali."

The proposal also addresses governance and disbursement mechanisms for the global fund. It outlines options for utilising the funds to support biodiversity conservation, enhance technology transfer, build research capacities, and foster partnerships between stakeholders. These initiatives are seen as critical not only for preserving natural ecosystems but also for empowering indigenous peoples and local communities who are often the custodians of these genetic resources.

Ahead of the final negotiations in Montreal and the subsequent COP 16 in Cali, Colombia, the global community is poised for rigorous debates and collaboration. The outcome of these discussions could shape the future of biodiversity conservation and sustainable development for generations to come. With the stakes high and the momentum building, all eyes are now on Montreal and Cali, where global leaders will convene to forge a path towards a more just and sustainable future.

Civil society organisations have also voiced support, urging for robust safeguards to ensure transparency and accountability in the management of the global fund. They argue that such measures are essential to build trust and ensure that the benefits of genetic resources are distributed equitably and effectively.

New study shows fake narratives peddled by fossil fuel behemoths for over five decades delayed the global energy transition

Lies, damn lies, oil cartels

JITENDRA CHOUBEY @ New Delhi

A NEW report reveals how big and powerful oil and gas companies had spun unscientific narratives over the past five decades to derail the global energy transition's journey towards clean fuel. Over that time scale, cumulative emissions of greenhouse gases by these fossil fuel companies accounted for as much as 18% of the world's total CO2 emissions.

The report, "How the Oil Industry Has Sustained Market: Dominance Through Policy Influence – A Historical Analysis of the Oil and Gas Playbook Against Renewables and Electric Vehicles," by the UK-based independent environment think tank InfluenceMap, investigated the strategies adopted by the fossil fuel industry to block science-based climate policy action. Their strategies undermining energy transition away from fossil fuels to zero-carbon alternatives such as renewable energy and electric vehicles, had three prongs: scepticism over alternatives, policy neutrality, and raising questions over energy security and affordability.

The report underlines that the world's most powerful oil and gas industry associations developed a playbook to oppose, weaken and delay the global energy transition and has been using it since 1967. They formed powerful associations of fossil fuels companies across the globe to peddle their narratives.

The spin doctoring began with the American Petroleum Institute (API), which represents all of America's oil and natural gas industry. Fuels Europe (FE) and Fuels Industry UK (FIUK) picked up the thread and pushed the narrative in their respective regions. They all likely succeeded in delaying the energy transition and continue to pose a serious threat to policy progress on climate change, the report contends.

The new report identifies and analyses the three broad categories of arguments these associations consistently used in their advocacy, all of which contradict science-based policy as set out by the Intergovernmental Panel on Climate Change and the International Energy Agency. The lobby employed narratives to oppose various climate policies, despite the fact that the scientific community, policymakers, and the public advanced their understanding of the climate crisis and its causes.

The analysis utilises a dataset compiled by Dario Kenner, a visiting research fellow at the University of Sussex. It includes over 50 detailed instances of the API, FE and FIUK where these unscientific narratives were used in their advocacy against alternatives to fossil fuels between 1967 and 2021. Additional data from 2021 to 2023 was collected by InfluenceMap to ensure that the analysis is up-to-date. The entire dataset was then studied to identify narrative trends.

The earliest evidence in the dataset from 1967 to 1992, relates solely to the API where it can be seen using all three narratives. Evidence in the dataset for FE and FIUK begins in 1993 and 2013, respectively. "Many oil and gas companies justify their significant scope 3 emissions by pointing to consumer demand, claiming it's beyond their control," said Tom Holen, InfluenceMap program manager for the Energy Transition at InfluenceMap.

"However, this report challenges this narrative by uncovering a strategic playbook designed to protect and sustain the societal and market forces favouring fossil fuels. This long-standing use of misleading narratives has likely delayed the energy transition for decades and continues to pose a serious threat to climate policy progress," he added.

UNSCIENTIFIC NARRATIVES USED BY FOSSILS FUEL COMPANIES

1. Solution Skepticism: Systematically downplays the potential impact and viability of alternative energy sources, casting doubt on their efficacy while emphasising challenges and uncertainties. It includes arguments that stir skepticism around issues associated with the use of fossil fuels
2. Policy Neutral: Used to oppose policy that promotes solely alternatives to fossil fuels. Instead, it promotes consumer choice, market solutions and minimal government intervention
3. Affordability and Energy Security: Stress on the importance of maintaining cost-effective and secure energy supplies. Fossil fuels are presented as central to both causes, while a shift to technology alternatives is framed as a significant risk

1967

Comments from Sun Oil and behalf of the API on the 1967 Clean Air Act.

"We in the petroleum industry are convinced that by the time a parctical electric car can be mass-produced and marketed, it will not enjoy any meaningful advantage from on air polloution standpoint. Emissions from internal-combustion engines will have long since been controlled"

1972

Comments from the API on the 1970 Clean Air Act.

"At this point in time, the cost of meeting the automobile exhaust emission goals in the clean air amendments cannot be known precisely, but certainly the economic impact is going to be great. The recent study of the National Academy of Science indicates that for the motorist there will be a substantial increase in the initial cost of the new automobile, a reduction of mileage per gallon of fuel, and an increase in maintenance costs."

1989

Comments from Mobil on behalf of the API on the Clean Air Act amendments of 1990.

"We believe performance standards should be set and all fuels and vehicles which can meet them should be allowed to compete in the market. This will ensure that the most cost-effective fuels and vehicles prevail."

2022

API joint letter on the Inflation Reduction Act.

"The United States has experienced its second consecutive quarter of negative GDP growth, and American consumers are facing record high inflation. We share the goal of addressing climate change, as evidenced in the policies we support and in the actions that we take every day. However, the considerable tax increases and new government spending in the IRA amount to the wrong policies at the worng time."

2023

API comments on the Greenhouse Gas Emissions Standards for Heavy-Duty Vehicles-Phase 3.

"EPA's focus on zero-emission vehicle (ZEV) solutions, and specifically battery electric vehicles (BEVs), ignores fuel- and vehicle-based options that could better accomplish the agency's objectives to expeditiously achieve greater transportation sector-related emission reductions from the entire vehicle fleet (both new and in-use) at lower cost."

API comments on the Greenhouse Gas Emissions Standards for Heavy-Duty Vehicles-Phase 3.

"API is concerned that there is significant uncertainty with regard to technology and infrastructure readiness for the proposed 2027-2032 timeframe; further, the transportation industry will be competing for the same resources to successfully implement both the heavy-duty and light- and medium-duty proposed programs on the same timeframe"

Loaded message from soil's moisture retention ability

USHA PERI @ Vizag

A WHOPPING 32.8% of India's total land area experienced a negative soil moisture anomaly in 2023, indicating vulnerability to drought stress across about 1.08 million sq km. On the other hand, approximately 47.7% of the country's land area showed positive soil moisture anomaly above historical averages, indicating wetter than usual conditions during the same period. This positive anomaly covered around 1.57 million sq km, leading to increased risks of flooding and waterlogging in both rural and urban areas.The findings reported in a recently published study in Theoretical and Applied Climatology, 'Unearthing India's soil moisture anomalies: impact on agriculture and water resource strategies,' offer important insights for policy makers.

The researchers highlighted that fluctuations in soil moisture directly affect crop yields, water availability and food security, posing unique challenges across diverse climatic zones. They compared 2023 data with historical averages from 2000 to 2005, and focused on soil moisture at depths of 0 to 10 cm.

The variability in soil moisture levels across different states and seasons suggest state-specific water management strategies are crucial for sustainable agriculture. The study advocated for the adoption of efficient irrigation techniques tailored to local conditions, citing examples where practices from states with surplus moisture could benefit those facing deficits.

The study marks the first detailed statewise assessment of seasonal soil moisture anomalies during the pre-monsoon, monsoon and post-monsoon periods.

During winter (December-January-February), Punjab experiences positive soil moisture anomalies, averaging 1.19 mm with peaks up to 8.75 mm. This surplus moisture supports winter crops, reducing the need for additional irrigation. In contrast, Odisha faces negative soil moisture anomalies averaging -0.59 mm, indicating drier conditions compared to historical averages. Aligning water management strategies with Punjab's practices could help mitigate these deficits. Bihar shows consistently below-average soil moisture with a mean anomaly of -1.60 mm, emphasising the need for enhanced irrigation and conservation techniques. Andhra Pradesh displays generally favourable conditions with a mean of 2.60 mm but notable variability (range: 11.02 mm), highlighting the importance of adaptable water management solutions.

Moving into the monsoon season (June-July-August-September), Punjab continues to benefit from positive soil moisture anomalies, averaging 7.86 mm with peaks up to 13.81 mm. This abundance of moisture supports robust crop growth and can be managed to prevent waterlogging.

Odisha shows improved soil moisture levels with a mean anomaly of -1.77 mm, approaching near-average conditions. Adopting techniques from Punjab could further enhance agricultural output during the monsoon.

Bihar and Jharkhand report notably below-average soil moisture, highlighting the critical need for water conservation and efficient irrigation systems to mitigate potential drought impacts. Chandigarh maintains favourable soil moisture levels with minimal variability (mean: 2.028 mm), supporting strategic agricultural planning.

During the pre-monsoon period (March-April-May), J&K exhibits high soil moisture variability (range: 26.64 mm), requiring dynamic water management strategies. Punjab maintains above-average soil moisture levels with a mean of 4.24 mm, providing stability for agricultural productivity. Odisha shows a slight deficit with a mean anomaly of -0.59 mm but benefits from shared water management practices with Punjab to mitigate pre-monsoon water stress. Andhra Pradesh reports generally favourable conditions with a mean of 2.36 mm but with variability (range: 5.38 mm), necessitating adaptable solutions. Bihar displays below-average soil moisture with a mean of -0.32 mm, underscoring the importance of water conservation efforts. Kerala demonstrates generally favourable conditions with a mean anomaly of -2.04 mm within a moderate range (4.46 mm), emphasising sustainable farming practices. Chandigarh maintains consistent soil moisture levels with a positive mean of 0.26 mm, facilitating strategic crop planning.

The study recommended the development of region-specific policies tailored to address distinct soil moisture conditions across India. It stressed the importance of investing in advanced soil moisture monitoring systems using remote sensing and ground-based sensors to provide real-time data for informed decision-making.

Actor Shah Rukh Khan has faced consistent criticism for endorsing a 'fairness' cream and a pan masala brand
Actor Ajay Devgn also endorses a pan masala brand
Hollywood actor Gwyneth Paltrow has been criticised for her wellness brand, which has been accused of promoting pseudoscientific therapies

INFLUENCE & ILLUSION

In light of the backlash against actor Samantha Ruth Prabhu for promoting a 'dangerous' alternative health treatment, CE explores the pitfalls of celebrity endorsements and the need for conscious consumerism and accountability

DESE GOWDA

In an era of unprecedented celebrity and social media influence, their largely unregulated product endorsements have far-reaching consequences, particularly in health and wellness. From cricketers promoting questionable supplements to actors endorsing hazardous pan masalas, these endorsements often mislead consumers and promote ineffective or worse, dangerous products, posing serious risks to public well-being. The recent controversy surrounding actor Samantha Ruth Prabhu's promotion of a dangerous alternative therapy underscores the urgent need for conscious consumerism and greater accountability from influencers.

The allure of alternative medicine and treatments lies in their promise of 'magical', rapid results. Despite often being more expensive than traditional treatments, their popularity persists. "These treatments offer quick fixes, whereas adopting a healthier lifestyle requires long-term commitment and effort," explains clinical nutritionist Gauravi Vinay. "People look for shortcuts to achieve glowing skin or great hair because their busy lifestyles don't allow proper habits like sleep and good nutrition."

A screengrab of the controversial post

The influence of celebrities in promoting these quick fixes is significant. Vinay stresses that celebrities should only create awareness about a product's existence, not claim to follow the lifestyle they endorse. "Their endorsements should encourage positive behaviour. If a celebrity endorses a protein shake, they must ensure its quality because they charge fees for such endorsements. There should be a liability clause making them responsible for their claims," she adds.

Aesthetic physician Dr Akhila Husne highlights the dangers of misleading skincare treatments. She recounts a young client who developed severe acne after using a product marketed as safe. Many such products contain undisclosed steroids, providing quick but temporary results at the cost of long-term skin health. "Claims of transforming skin with a single product are unrealistic and often harmful. It's like a magic trick-initially, you see glowing skin, but after a week, adverse effects kick in," she explains.

Deceptive marketing and endorsements without due diligence also extend to healthy eating. Dr Mythri Shankar, lead consultant at Aster CMI Hospitals suggests consumers learn to discern product contents by reading labels carefully. "Celebrities endorse unnecessary protein supplements or food products that are not truly healthy. Some are known to cause cancer, have high sugar content, and can be addictive, especially for young children," she warns. "The front end of these products is where all the gimmicks happen. Unhealthy things are often labelled as healthy. The correct way to judge these products is to understand how to read ingredient labels and nutritional information at the back."

Beauty content creator Ashwini Dixit advises influencers to ensure they endorse only quality products. "Influencers must be honest about their opinions and experiences with products. It's essential to mention that what works for one person might not work for another. Consumers should ensure the product aligns with their needs," she says. "Many people see only the glamorous side of endorsements and think that's what life is about. We need to be mindful with our endorsements, promoting diversity and inclusivity by representing various body types and skin tones."

Italian performer Andrea Fendi, better known as Katastrofa Clown, brings his whimsical puppet and clown show, The Room of Memories, to the city for the first time this weekend

EXPRESS FEATURES

HE acts, he reacts, and he makes us laugh. Meeting a friendly neighbourhood clown can be one of the most interesting ways to spend your weekend. Andrea Fendi, aka Katastrofa Clown, could brighten your weekend The Room of Memories, a clown and puppet show.

As an audience, there may be many reasons to love a clown, but Fendi himself gives us two. "For me, it's the beauty of hearing people laugh and the possibility of playing and always feeling like a child. Not many can do that," says Fendi, who originally hails from Italy.

Being a clown might not be the first choice for many, but Fendi feels he was destined for it. "I didn't choose to be a clown; it came naturally, and I realised it slowly over time. I started with classical theatre shows and then, little by little, I realised that I didn't want to do anything too serious. I began doing more comical shows and had more and more fun seeing people have fun, and I thought, this is my way," says Fendi, who is touring India for the first time.

Having travelled to over 30 countries around the world – most of Europe, China, Korea, Iran, Bahrain, and Morocco – Fendi says he gets different reactions in different countries. "In every country I visit, the reactions to clown shows vary. Some are more enthusiastic, some more calm, but what unites everyone is that, in the end, everyone leaves feeling a little more like a child, looking at life through different eyes," he says.

(The Room of Memories will be performed on July 14, 5pm and 7.15pm at MLR Convention Centre Whitefield. Tickets starting at ₹499 are available on bookmyshow.com)

PARIVRTTA UTKATASANA CHAIR
(REVOLVED CHAIR POSE ON CHAIR)

This is a supported variation of the foundational pose, Parivrtta Utkatasana Variation. This takes the weight or pressure off the knee and ankle joints while creating a strong and balanced formation. It is perfect for beginners or students with injuries, weakness, or limited range of motion.

STEPS

- Sit in Chair Tadasana (Chair Mountain Pose).
- Keep your back straight, and shoulders relaxed. Look forward to maintain proper posture.
- Keep your feet and knees hip-width apart and join your hands together in the Hands Chest Chair.
- Stay here for a few breaths.
- Inhale and stretch the spine upwards. Exhale, turn and twist the torso to the right, place the left palm on the floor.
- Maintain the twist, inhale and release the Namaskar Mudra. Raise the right hand above, bringing the left hand towards the floor in front of the feet. Twist the neck and fix your gaze on the right fingertips.
- Ensure arms are straight, shoulders are stacked and the neck is aligned with the shoulders.
- Stay here for about six breaths. Ensure both feet and left palm are softly pressed on the floor.
- To release, inhale, gently unwind the twist, and come to sit in Hands Chest Chair.
- Do the stretch on the other side. Release and relax.

LIMITATIONS

- Students with injuries to the arms, neck, shoulders, rib cage, spine, or lower back, undergone any recent abdominal surgery, experiencing high/low BP, heart ailments, severe conditions related to digestion, spondylitis of the neck, recovering from diastasis recti, or anything that causes tension, aches, pain during this pose, and pregnant women, should avoid this.
- Those who suffer from weak bone structure and joints, with acute tailbone, lower back, or hip pain should take it slow under the advice of a yoga teacher.
- Warm-up is essential before practise.

BENEFITS

- Helps stretch the upper body, improves balance and strength in the legs, arms, shoulders, core, and lower back.
- An ideal addition for sportspeople.
- Included in restorative and therapeutic yoga sequences.
- Heals and strengthens weak joints.
- Helps de-stress the upper body.
- Relieves back pain and upper back, neck, arms, and shoulder stiffness.
- Helps treat respiratory disorders, like asthma and bronchitis.
- Provides relief from urinary incontinence, fibromyalgia, kyphosis, osteoporosis, and rheumatoid arthritis.
- Safe practice for seniors to keep their joints and muscles active and supple; and for special needs kids or adults.
- Helps relieve menstrual pains or discomforts.
- Wonderful practice for those who sit for prolonged hours at work .
- Encourages sthiram-sukham at advanced level, activating the Sacral Chakra.

NANDA KISHORE TO HELM A FAMILY COMMERCIAL ENTERTAINER TITLED SHIVAGANA

The film, produced by Surappa Babu, brings together stars Shivarajkumar and Ganesh for the first time on screen. It is officially set to kickstart in October

A SHARADHAA

PRODUCER Surappa Babu, known for previous hits like Kotigobba 2 and Kotigobba 3, has once again ignited excitement with his upcoming project that brings together the unique pairing of stars Shivarajkumar and Ganesh for the first time on screen. The film, which gets its title as Shivagana, is set to be helmed by director Nanda Kishore.

The director of Adhyaksha, Ranna Victory, Mukunda Murari, and Pogaru, is currently busy with his Malayalam debut, Vrushabha starring Mohanlal, and plans to wrap up his commitments by September before delving into this new venture with Shivanna and Ganesh. The film is expected to be a family-oriented commercial entertainer, distinct from the actors' previous films. The project is slated to kick off officially with a muhurath ceremony scheduled for October.

Nanda Kishore

Apart from this, Shivarajkumar and Ganesh are involved in various other projects. Shivanna's lineup includes Bhairathi Ranagal, set for a September release, along with Arjun Janya's 45, Rohit Padaki's Uttarakaanda, Hemanth M Rao's Bhairavana Kone Pata, Lakki Gopal's I V Returns, an untitled film with director Karthik Adwaith (his 131st film), Srini's Dalayavi and Jawa, directed by Raviarasu. Additionally, he plays a pivotal role in Ram Charan's upcoming Telugu project.

Meanwhile, Ganesh is gearing up for the release of Krishnam Pranaya Sakhi, directed by Srinivas Raju, and will also feature in Vikhyath's directorial alongside Ramesh Aravind. He has also given the green light to a project directed by Pannaga Bharana.

Kenda gets a release date

Sahadev Kelvadi's film stars BV Bharath and Pranav Sridhar in lead roles

CE FEATURES

SAHADEV Kelvadi's Kenda, produced by Roopa Rao, is scheduled for release in theatres on July 26. The announcement of the film's theatrical release coincided with its trailer launch, which was conducted by Vinod Ravindran. The trailer offers a glimpse into its compelling narrative. The film delves into the underworld through the perspective of a young garment worker caught in a web of crime. Starring BV Bharath and Pranav Sridhar in lead roles, the film has music by Ritwik Kaikini, cinematography by Pradeep Nayak, and art direction by Lakshmikant Joshi. The cast of the film also includes Vinod Sushil, Gopalkrishna Deshpande, Sachin Srinath, Bindu Rakshith, Sharat Gowda, Sateesh Kumar, and Archana Shyam in prominent roles. Made under the Ameyukti Studios banner, Kenda has made its mark at many international film festivals. It premiered at the Tisch School of the Arts in New York and was also screened in Switzerland.

Team Padakkalam

KRG Studios ventures into Malayalam with Padakkalam

CE FEATURES

KRG Studios, known for Kannada film distribution and productions like Ratnan Prapancha, Hoysala, and the upcoming films Powder and Uttarakaanda, now ventures into Malayalam cinema with the title Padakkalam. The project officially commenced today with its muhurath ceremony in Kochi. At the ceremony, attended by its cast and crew, the makers released its motion poster.

Padakkalam is a fantasy film written by Nithin C Babu and Manu Swaraj, and the latter will also mark his debut as a writer and director. It is produced by Karthik Gowda, Yogi G Raj, and Vijay Subramaniam under KRG Studios, along with renowned actor-producer Vijay Babu under Friday Film House.

The makers have cast Suraj Venjaramoodu, Sharaf U Dheen, Sandeep Pradeep, Niranjana Anoop, Saafboi, Arun Pradeep, Arun Ajikumar, Ishan Shoukath, and Pooja Mohanraj in pivotal roles. The film will have music by Rajesh Murugesan, cinematography by Anu Moothedath, and editing by Nidhin Raj Arol.

An unimaginative saviour-drama

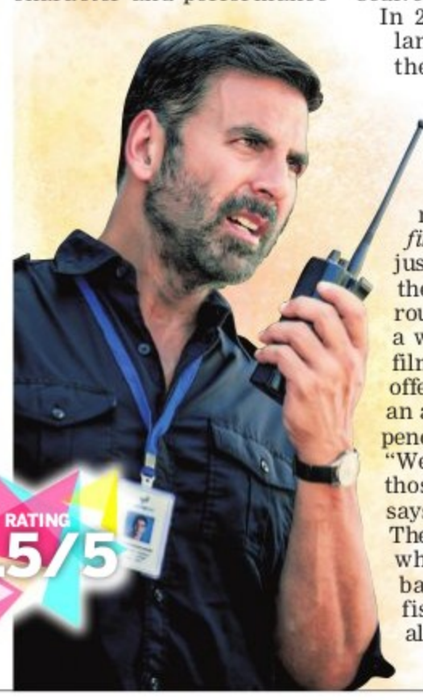
SARFIRA
Director: Sudha Kongara
Cast: Akshay Kumar, Radhikka Madan, Paresh Rawal, Seema Biswas

KARTIK BHARDWAJ

AS a 90s kid, whenever I see an airplane in a Hindi film, I expect Akshay Kumar to be in it or over it. In Khiladi 420 (2000), Akshay stands atop a mid-air biplane and jumps to a hot-air balloon to save Mahima Chaudhry. Akshay's affinity for the aerial has surfaced over the years (Airlift (2015); Bell Bottom (2020)). In fact, his cameo appearance in An Action Hero (2022) is also on board a flight. A film about an ex-Airforce officer trying to float a low-cost airline has Akshay's name written all over it. It also brings another theme the actor always gravitates towards, the social-saviour drama. Although it is nostalgic to see Akshay, aviation, and maybe even social drama, all-together on screen, Sarfira is an unoriginal, woefully predictable experience.

For the residents of his village, short-tempered, raggedy Veer Mhatre (Akshay) is a visionary. When the film begins, the feisty and independent Rani (Radhikka Madan) has come to see him as a marriage prospect. Later, he bluntly declares his bankruptcy to her family. "You have nothing?" she taunts. "Only a business plan," he says. "India's first low-cost airline." She smiles. It's love at first flight. However, it isn't going to be a smooth ride. We witness Veer's desolation as he is turned away from banks and government offices. Now, he has to put down his ego and depend on his wife for finances. Generally, male-centric ambition dramas have female leads reduced to being allies. Radhikka's Rani, however, steers clear. She huffs and walks away in a scene when Veer asks her for ₹ 15,000. Apologetically, he goes behind her. She turns and says, "Are you ashamed of taking money from your wife?" It's a mature take on man-woman relationships. Radhikka's assured performance also lifts the character.

Veer takes his proposal to the classist and casteist aviation tycoon Paresh Goswami (Paresh Rawal). The meeting goes sour. The film now becomes a David vs Goliath tale as Goswami tries to sabotage Veer's operation at every step. Although Paresh's character and performance are a carbon copy of the Tamil original, he felt more vile and towering in Soorarai Pottru. Akshay's Veer also seemed less grimy and rooted than Suriya's Nedumaaran. The actor is especially wobbly in the sentimental scenes and is unable to sell the emotional core of the film. Sarfira tries to be a rousing tale of a man who fought against all odds. It wishes to stir its viewers with hope but templated telling nosedives it.



In 2020, Soorarai Pottru landed on OTT owing to the pandemic. The film won five National awards, including Best Feature and Best Screenplay, however, a theatrical presentation remained elusive. Sarfira seems to be concocted just to satisfy that itch for the big-screen release. A routine exercise to tap into a wider audience. In the film, Veer rebuffs a buyout offer from a certain Walia, an aviation honcho with a penchant for the good times. "We won't do a deal with those kinds of people," he says. A matter of principle. The carrier Air Deccan, on whose rise the film is based, merged with Kingfisher Airlines in 2007. It's all business, I guess.

Go back, Indian

SUDHIR SRINIVASAN

WHILE watching Indian-2, I remembered the best of Shankar with a certain wistfulness. The best moments in his work made us believe everything could be possible. You could master Bharatanatyam in a week. Hell, you could even become a Chief Minister tomorrow, if destiny wanted it for you. The idea may not be so novel anymore, but the beginning of Indian-2 shows that his strengths can still be effective—like the skit of a corrupt man who gets shot but is protected by wads of cash on his chest, like that animated figure of the common man. These ideas still remind you that this filmmaker's strengths aren't necessarily dated—which is why I didn't understand the desperate homages to his own work. The nakkal-nickel joke from Enthiran, the bajji dialogue from Sivaji… Why fall back on past glory when you have the chance to build on it with a sequel to perhaps your best film? Why risk taking away from the authenticity of this universe? In a film where everything works, these would spark wild celebration, but in this film, where almost nothing works…

The best Shankar films gave flight to your impossible hopes for a utopian future. But they weren't just about VFX gimmickry or a fanciful premise. The impossibility of the protagonist's aspiration was held aloft by solid storytelling principles which combined grand world-building with authentic personal emotion. I wistfully considered all of this, as I experienced what's arguably the director's weakest film yet. In this film, the many gimmicky looks Senapathy is given, take away from the seriousness of his character—and it doesn't help that the make-up makes Senapathy look like a pale, rotting imitation of what he once was. That's about his outside. We get nothing of note about his inside either. Senapathy seems to have been treated as a cool vigilante figure whose strength is his 'varma kalai' ability. That's an unfortunate Marvel-ification of a man whose foremost attraction is his sharp intelligence and his unshakeable ideological conviction. This film shows no interest in his personality, satisfied instead to exploit Senapathy for silly attempts at entertainment, like having him mimic a cat.

It was always going to be a challenge to repurpose Senapathy for today's world. How would this unshakeable extremist with zero tolerance inspire people today? He would have plenty of reason to act, of course, given the rich-poor divide, given the rampant corruption, given all the rot. But it's all a lot for one man to process, for one film to compress. Where Senapathy's speech in the Nizhalgal Ravi murder scene felt so powerful, here, it feels like a boomer droning on to no real effect. And no visual of Siddharth and friends nodding along helps. The vigilante in this film is more Joker than Batman, strangely enough. He lets out a small evil laugh when people are about to die—and on one occasion, he doesn't even seem to care that the victim is a good police officer. When society condemns him, I imagine that the desired reaction is one of support for Senapathy, but this film had rather killed my empathy for him by then. When an ally of his loses a close one, he stands frozen, offering almost a corporate hand of support. Where's the emotion?

What does Senapathy feel about having to clean up his society all over again? This film presents him as though he were rather amused by it all. The police almost catch him when he lands in India, but he escapes and before doing so, meows at them. Senapathy didn't seem like a man who enjoyed his kills; he did it because he knew no other way. It's a disagreeable strategy, but this man is flawed, given that he spent his youth in a time of war. Where is such detailing here? Where is any reference to his family? Perhaps the idea was for Indian-2 to skip all personal angles and jump straight into becoming a 'social' film. Where then is the deep socio-psychological commentary on our society and its people? From out of nowhere, Senapathy comes up with the brainwave of inspiring people to rat on their near and dear ones—and it's an idea that could well have been the theme of this whole film. Senapathy thinks country first, but what's a country if not its many units of people? How do you get people to look past their families? The portion that touches upon this late into the second half is the film's best. Shankar's Indian deserved a sequel that was ready to sink into nuances, but Indian-2 doesn't even address the fundamental question of whether a black-or-white extremist can understand/inspire the greyness of his country's people.

Even the manner of Senapathy's executions in this film is laughably childish. In the first film, you got the haunting image of a killed man, whose mouth fills up with rice spilling from a sack. Here, one victim trots like a horse on the road. Another becomes feminine—and all of this is supposed to make us laugh. Bobby Simha, playing Pramod, is restricted to looking rather irritated from start to finish. If this were a film interested in anyone's emotions, it would focus on telling us why for Pramod, catching Senapathy is a 'life ambition'. Instead, we get a 100-something man racing along on a unicycle for what seems like an eternity. The director's films aren't exactly remembered for well-informed politics, considering they aim to offer populist catharsis. But you still don't expect a dig at government freebies. I suppose nuances of social equality are tall ask for a film whose protagonist's important dialogue comes with fundamental lip-sync issues. You know a film is not working when even the late Vivekh struggles to get going with his one-liners. The man, known for dropping nuggets of knowledge in his humour, uses light-year as a unit of time (when it's a unit of distance)—but as I said, nothing really works in Indian-2.

You know how sometimes a sequel is called a 'spiritual sequel'? Indian-2 can be called a deeply dispiriting sequel, I think; it's a film that shows almost no understanding of the soul and strength of the first film and its protagonist. For these reasons, it's really hard not to join the chorus of citizens in this film as they fling objects at the protagonist and yell, "Go back Indian!"
